Death of 2 in Crash Here Is Under Investigation Today

Air force officials, investigating a crash of a light plane yesterday which killed two RCAF pilots, at noon today declined to make a statement as to cause of the tragedy.

Still probing into the crash in residential northwest Edmonton yesterday is special investigator Squadron Leader J. Allen.

"We are still not ready to make any statements until even the minutest detail has been cleared up," one RCAF official said.

F. G. Winspear, of Northwest Industries Limited, today denied earlier reports that his company owned the machine and had made "modifications" to it. Only work the company did on the plane, owned by the air force, was to equip it with skis, he said.

Yesterday while a preliminary probe was being held the names of the two victims were released by airforce officials after next of kin were notified in Ottawa.

BOTH EASTERNERS

Victims were Squadron Leaders D A. Doherty, 35, formerly of Toronto and J. E. W. Bythell, 31, formerly of Granton, Ont. Their homes recently have been in Ottawa.

Both officers, veterans of more than eight years' service, were the only passengers in the light observation plane. It plummetted to the earth at 105 street and 112 avenue after narrowly missing a row of houses.

They had arrived in Edmonton Wednesday night from their station in Rockcliffe, Ont., after piloting a North Star craft here.

Flash Fire Razes Big B.C. Sawmill

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C., Jan. 12.—(CP)—A flash fire fanned by cold winds last night levelled a $100,000 sawmill on this north shore of Burrard Inlet and put 120 men out of work.

Giant flames destroyed the Lions Gate Lunmber Company's main mill in 35 minutes. Seven-above temperatures, threatening to drop to zero which would be the coldest ever recorded here, hampered firefighters.

170,000 Boxes Of Apples Burn In Packing House

KELOWNA, B.C., Jan. 13.—(CP)—Dynamite was used today in a vain attempt to save the big Rutland packing house destroyed by a $600,000 fire.

The damage estimate was made by W. Spiers, manager of the Kelowna Growers Exchange, owners of the plant.

The fire, believed caused by a short circuit in the electrical power line, destroyed 170,000 boxes of apples, as well as gutting packing equipment and the cold storage plant.

Value of the apples alone would exceed $300,000.

Firemen, handicapped by lack of water and a strong north wind, battled the blaze with ineffectual hand equipment in 15 below zero weather.

FANNED BY WIND

Ruins still smouldered fiercely at noon today.

The blaze was discovered about 3 a.m. by a watchman. it broke out in one wall of the cold storage plant and, fanned by the wind, gained rapid headway.

A wall was dynamited in an ineffective attempt to save the plant.

Renovated three years ago, it was one of the most modern in the Okanagan Valley. Mr. Spiers said he expected plans for reconstruction will begin almost immediately.

Roads Blocked Throughout B.C.

VANCOUVER, B.C. Jan. 13.—(BUP)—Winter came to stay in British Columbia today.

A 43-year-old record was broken when the thermometer slipped down to 2.7 degrees above zero here. It was on January 18, 1937, that the temperature dropped to 2.8, one point warmer than it was in Vancouver last night. The all-time record low since records have been kept was in 1907 when Vancouver's temperature was down to 1.7 degrees above zero.

In Victoria today, the mercury tumbled to 7.8 degrees above zero to record the third coldest day in the city's history.

Hope Given Up For Crewmen

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(CP)—The Royal Navy tonight fixed as 65 the death toll in the sinking of the submarine Truculent.

The Admiralty said the submarine—rammed and sunk in the Thames Estuary last night by the iron-clad bow of the Swedish tanker Divina—had 80 persons aboard instead of the 76 originally reported.

The navy has given up for dead 55 men believed trapped in the submarine. Ten bodies have been found floating in the sea. There were 15 survivors.

A statement from the admiralty said "no hope can now be entertained" for any further survivors. It said the next of kin of the known dead and all of the missing were being notified.

The broken hull of the Truculent lies at the bottom of the Thames.

The admiralty's announcement followed a report that all the crew in the unflooded part of the undersea vessel had escaped. Fifteen men have been rescued and nine others are known dead, including three picked up last night after the collision and six bodies were found today.

ARREST SWEDISH SHIP

Divers and frogmen tapped out messages on the hulk of the Truculent, which lay 56 feet deep at high tide, but up to this afternoon apparently had received no response.

Vice-Admiral G. B. Middleton of the Chatham nevy yard posted a notice saying "great loss of life" is feared.

The admiralty ordered the arrest of the Swedish tanker as a prelude to a court of inquiry into the disaster.

RESCUE CREW KILLED

All five men aboard a Lancaster rescue plane were killed early today in a takeoff crash at an RAF station in Scotland. The plane was to have picked up divers for the Chatham operation.

Word from the salvage vessels said the divers found at least four of the Truculent's seven compartment's flooded.

"It is possible," a naval officer said, "the last three compartments are unaffected. A diver is making a fresh descent to examine the deck and superstructure to see whether or not the hatches are open.

"If they are open, there can be even less possibility of anyone on board being left alive."

This may be the greatest peacetime disaster to a British submarine since June, 1939, when the Thetis sank in Liverpool Bay with a loss of 199 lives.

The submarine radio was omi-

'Took a Deep Breath, Hoped For the Best'

Special to the Bulletin

CHATHAM, England, Jan. 13.—(UP)—"We took a good deep breath and hoped for the best."

That's how 10 sailors trapped in the engine room of the submarine Truculent said they saved themselves.

Petty Officer Robert Fry, 28, said he was in the after end of the engine room when the crash occurred. He waited for the others to assemble, and shut the water-right bulkhead door.

The front two thirds of the submarine, where the officers and civilian technicians were, was flooded immediately after the crash, and the engine room was partially flooded, Fry said.

He said he and the other nine were in the engine room for an hour or an hour and a half.

"There we were on the bottom," the curly-haired sailor said.

Each man put on the escape apparatus, then ducked under water slopping ever higher in the engine room and into the escape hatch

Each man stayed in the hatch for about 30 seconds, he said. Then:

"We took a good deep breath and hoped for the best."

One by one the 10 sailors bobbed to the surface of the wintry sea, where they were picked up by rescue boats.

BOTH 'TERRIBLY' IN LOVE

Lover Sees 'Allah's Will' King Takes Sweetheart

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland, Jan. 13—(UP)—Zaki Hachem, 27-year-old Egyptian economist who reportedly lost his fiancee to his king, sped for New York by plane today to resign his United Nations job and become Egyptian minister to Moscow.

Behind him he left his beautiful, 16-year-old Egyptian sweetheart, Narriman Sadek. King Farouk of Egypt was said to have seen her in a jewelry store and immediately claimed her for his own.

Although all news of the reported court romance was suppressed in Egypt by censorship, Hachem willingly discussed it as soon as he cleared the borders of his own country.

Hachem was scheduled to wed Miss Sadek Dec. 8. King Farouk, who was divorced more than a year ago, reportedly saw the girl while she and Hachem were shopping for a ring.

Reports from Cario said that Farouk informed the girl she was to become Queen of Egypt. Egyptian police removed all photographs of Miss Sadek from Hachem's apartment and reportedly placed him under constant surveillance. His marriage to Miss Sadek, dark-haired daughter of an Egyptian civil servant, was broken off Dec. 4.

When Hachem stepped off the plane in Athens for his first stop outside Egypt he spoke without bitterness. He said the reports abroad of his shattered romance had caused him "the greatest pain."

"All I hope is that what has happened will result in happiness for all concerned and will contribute to the welfare of the Egyptian nation and the Egyptian people," he said.

Asked in Rome whether he thought his former fiancee would become Queen of Egypt, Hachem said: "If it is Allah's will, it will be so."

(The exchange telegraph agency quoted Hachem as saying: "I couldn't see her before I left. It was not possible. Forget her? I'm sure never. Yes you may say we loved each other terribly.")

The Little Things of Life

Of late there has been a great controversy raging in and around Hollywood as to Dorothy Lamour's figure. Some of the wiseacres thereabouts opined that Dotty was dropped by RKO recently because her figure "ain't what it used to be." Others say Dotty just has a yen to freelance, and her yen has naught to do with her figure. However, for the edification of Dotty, and to settle arguments, herewith latest picture of the "Road" gal, so make up your own mind.

Death Toll 65 In Sub Sinking

nously silent during the night, but rescue parties were given fresh hope when searchlights picked up a marker buoy fired from the Truculent.

The buoy was found nine hours after the armor-plated bows of the Divina rammed the submarine in darkness and fog last night.

At dawn today there was believed to be about 30 hours' supply of air left in the sealed chambers of the Truculent.

Naval chiefs mobilized hundreds of sailors and dockyard workers to speed up rescue operations.

TELLS OF COLLISION

Captain Karl Hommerberg, Swedish skipper of the Divina, told reporters today "the crash came with an impact that shook us from stem to stern and we saw the submarine sink immediately—in one minute. She had been travelling on the surface."

"We saw men in the water and my crew rushed to get them out. Ropes and lifebelts were thrown to them and we also launched our boat. We managed to pick up eight survivors and two dead men."

Aboard the Truculent on its ill-fated run were six officers, 52 seamen and 18 workmen from the royal naval dockyard.

The admiralty said there was enough underwater escape apparatus for every member of the sub's crew.

The damaged Divina, whose prow was built like a battering ram to plough through Arctic ice, was escorted to Sheerness docks.

NEARLY BREAKS DOWN

The 47-year-old Capt. Homerberg nearly broke down as he told reporters he didn't know how or why the crash occurred.

"We had a terrible night," he said.

"The Truculent, which displaces 1,575 tons when submerged, was bound for Sheerness dockyards when the crash occurred. She had been out since morning on a trial run, accompanied by the destroyer Cordray.

The Truculent is a 273-foot "T" class submarine completed in 1942 for general service and capable of staying out 45 days on patrol. It is believed she has the latest "Schnorkel" equiment permitting her to stay submerged for longer hours.

Oil Legislation Study Is Needed

To be articled to a practicing law firm holds more promise of usefulness to the student than going straight into practice from proposed full-time law schools, Dean W. F. Bowker of University of Alberta law school told the Law Society of Alberta convention at the Macdonald yesterday.

Dean Bowker said some experiments were being carried out with the full-time law school in the United States with the idea gaining some favor in Canada.

OIL LAW STUDY

He doubted that a full-time school could effectively supplant the practical experience gained by law students studying with experienced, active law firms.

He told the 100 delegates to the Society's annual meeting of numerous instances in which a student owed much to learning the professional methods from real-life application of his study.

Dean Bowker said a special study of oil legislation would be timely and appropriate for Alberta.

BAR LIAISON

Closer relation with Canadian Bar Association was advocated by S. Bruce Smith, K.C., chairman.

It was hoped that next year the Alberta committees of the Canadian Bar Association would meet with the Law Society of Alberta in convention, said Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith announced selection of committee chairmen:

S. J. Helman, KC, administration of civil justice; C. W. Clement, KC, insurance; Abe W. Miller, KC, administration of criminal justice; J. V. H. Milvain, KC, civil liberties; Gordon Egbert, KC, commercial law; Ronald Martland, KC, comparative law; Harold Hawe, KC, industrial relations; William McGillivray, Calgary, junior bar; Dean W. F. City's Old Jail House Now Used For Storage

By Don Travis
Bulletin Staff Writer

"Boys, jail is no good. Stay out of it if you can."

This homely truth is carved on the wall of what once used to be a jail cell in the basement of the old city police and fire station at 98 street and 101A avenue.

The seven basement cells now hold stores of supplies for needy families instead of holding prisoners.

Since 1931, when the new station at 102 avenue and 98 street was opened, the building has been used as a civic block annex.

A nearly dungeon-like atmosphere is created by the 10-inch thick brick walls and the heavy iron castings around the cell doors.

This provides an almost amusing contrast to the modern prison cell made of bars and concrete.

HIGH CEILINGS

Inside one of the cells, large enough to hold several men, the air is stuffy.

One outstanding feature of the cells were the height of the ceilings.

They extended at least 14 feet from the concrete floor and were dome-shaped.

One dubious story is told about the old jail:

It seems that back in the Gold Rush of '98 the man poet Robert Service made famous as "Dangerous Dan McGrew" cooled his hot heels in the old pokey.

Murderer Dies For Slaying Over Money

OSSINING, N.Y., Jan. 13.—(UP)—Hoping for clemency almost to the end, George Peter Reeh, 32, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing Prison last night for a holdup-murder staged "because I was flat broke."

Reeh entered the death chamber smiling to pay with his life for the death of Benjamin Klein whom he shot in a Manhattan monument store last March 19.

The former upholsterer said he "got into this scrape because I was flat broke."

Son He Helped Is Other Man In Dad's Divorce

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 13. —(BUP) — Theodore Borkowski, 58, who won a divorce from his 44-year-old wife because she loved his son by a previous marriage, said today he could forgive a stranger "but not my own son."

Borkowski told the court he brought his son Chester, 38, from Poland as a displaced person in 1947 only to find in a short while that Chester loved his step-mother, Mrs. Josephine Borkowski.

"One night I caught them embracing," he said, "and my son beat me up as my wife looked on."

Mrs. Borkowski admitted she loved Chester.

"Now that I am free," she said, "I am going to marry him."

'I LOVED HER'

Argument Over Alarm Leads to Killing Bride

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(BUP)—"I want the electric chair," Thomas Taylor, 28, said today. "Life isn't worth living without her."

He meant his bride of two months, 21-year-old Anne Taylor.

Taylor admitted to police he killed her in a jealous rage because he didn't believe she had been delayed by traffic on a visit to her mother.

"I was insanely jealous," the unemployed war veteran told police. "I thought she was going to leave me."

The couple began arguing yesterday over who had set the alarm clock five minutes earlier than they had agreed.

Taylor said his wife left their Brooklyn apartment in a huff to go to her foster mother's home

"I began telephoning," he told police, "and it took her two hours to get there."

He said he made another telephone check later in the afternoon when she left, and it took her only half an hour to get home.

"I didn't believe her when she told me she had been delayed by the trolleys," he told police.

"I punched her on the jaw two or three times. But I couldn't knock her out.

"Then I hit her on the head with a hammer twice. When I saw she was still alive, I tied a piece of red cord around her neck.

"She still was breathing. I slipped off my black leather belt and knotted that around her neck."

Volume Jumps

Actress a Dream Girl But Not to Husband

By Virginia MacPherson

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 13.—(BUP)—Joan Fontaine, currently separated from her second mate, admitted today she doesn't blame any movie queen's husband for walking out. She says all actresses are hard to live with.

That goes for herself. Also for Bill Dozier, the movie producer from whom the beautiful blond is expected to file for divorce any day now.

"I'm terribly moody," she confessed. "I'm up . . . I'm down . . . I'm happy . . . I'm miserable. And that's hard for a man to keep up with, you know.

"I get terribly upset over things."

Any actress with an "oscar," she said, and she has her share, is apt to make life pretty hectic for the old man.

ALWAYS TOO TIRED

"Especially when she's working," Miss Fontaine explained. "You hardly ever see your husband during a picture. You're up at 6 a.m., out all day, home at 7 p.m., too tired even to talk."

"After dinner you flop into bed. You have to learn those lines for the next day. And you have to get plenty of sleep to look right for the cameras.

"No wonder husbands get a bit fed up."

Being married to a glamor girl doesn't do much for their male ego, either.

"An actress is financially independent, handles her own money, keeps her own business affairs straight, pays her own bills," said Miss Fontaine, who has a 14-month-old daughter.

"In a situation like this, a husband is less necessary than he is to a woman who needs him around to help pay the rent."

Hollywood husbands know this, too, she added.

"Of course, it's nice to have them there when you want them."

"I'd like to have three more children," she said. "I suppose that requires a husband, doesn't it? No, don't say I'm looking for my third husband."

Farmers Threaten Machinery Boycott

1,500,000 Federation Members In Farm-Price Protest Move

By Lorne Frame

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—(CP)—H. H. Hannam of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, said yesterday he is prepared to swing the national organization into a proposed boycott of farm machinery and non-essential manufactured products.

The move, sparked by the Ontario hog producers' association as a protest against what he termed lack of government action to bolster sagging farm prices, has his "complete endorsation." He hopes it will spread from coast to coast.

The national federation represents an estimated 1,500,000 farmers.

Hog producers protested against remarks made by Claude W Lockard, president of International Harvester Company. Mr. Lockard, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Canadian chamber of commerce, said he is "certain" farm prices are above the cost of production.

ON DEFLATION ROAD

Mr. Hannam said that one of the most serious complaints farmers had was that prices, held under a ceiling in 1944 to curb inflation, were being allowed to fall now, threatening deflation.

Mr. Lockard told the Ontario Federation of Agriculture convention here that state control of prices and marketing was only short of state control of production.

Despite farmers' claims that they had lost $50,000,000 with the introduction of margarine, he hadn't noticed a great change in the price of butter.

LOSS $5 PER HOG

Charles McGinnis, president of the hog producers' association, said farmers were asked to take a loss on their products "to feed wealthy executives among the people of Canada."

He said hog producers were suffering a $5 loss on every hog marketed. Their return was $38.25 on a $43.49 investment.

Detailed figures on the cost of marketing a hog were produced in answer to Mr. Lockard's statement that with his experience in accounting he felt certain that he could not estimate the cost of marketing a hog and believed no farmer could.

PRETTY PHONES BACK AGAIN

TORONTO, Jan. 13—(CP)—The Bell Telephone company here today received its first 200 colored telephone sets—a dazzling array in tones of Pekin red, dark blue, grey-green, ivory and old rose.

A few persons who used colored sets before the war are the first to get replacements, but others can get them by putting their names on a waiting list. There's a $10 installation charge.

Gander Fight Seen Settling To Saw-Off

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 — (CP) — A saw-off between Canada and the United States over jurisdiction of U.S.-held military bases in Newfoundland is foreseen in informed quarters here as a result of negotiations between officials of the two countries.

Canada is expected to get satisfaction in some but not all her requests that the U.S. relinquish certain civilian rights accorded her when she took over the three bases on a 99-year lease in 1941, when Newfoundland was a colony. The rights involve judical, taxation, and customs matters.

But it's expected to be months yet before the two countries finally agree on exactly what should be done about the bases now that Newfoundland has become a Canadian province.

Meanwhile ,there have been reports in the U.S. press that Washington has been considering buying or leasing the French island of St. Pierre and Miquelon, 15 miles south of Newfoundland, because of Canada's actions not only about the bases but about civil air rights at Gander airport.

These reports say the U.S. might turn the island into giant bases that could take the place of both the military bases and Gander from the American viewpoint.

Both Canadian civil aviation and defence officials say no such suggestion has come through official channels and there is every indication that the U.S. intends to keep on using the present facilities.

Prisoners' Needs Base Treatment In Saskatchewan

VANCOUVER, Jan. 13—(CP)—A Saskatchewan penal official said today his province's program of "rehabilitation, not punishment" is yielding fruit in terms of human values and in dollars and cents.

"In Saskatchewan, prisoners are treated on the basis of their need, not according to the crimes they have committed," Hugh Christie, Director of Corrections, said here.

"The aim is rehabilitation, not punishment."

Since a program of penal reform began in 1947, Mr. Christie said, the prison population has been reduced and one jail has been closed.

Governor Philip with eleven ships arrived at Sydney, Australia, in 1788, to found the first permanent settlement in the "Great South Land."

Prestwick Gets Cold Shoulder From Whitehall

GLASGOW, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Scottish business men, contending the United Kingdom needs at least two major airports, are campaigning to have Prestwick developed into a first-class international air terminus.

Prestwick is an Ayrshire coastal town south of Glasgow whose airfield mushroomed into a wartime landing base for the thousands of planes ferried across the North Atlantic.

Its facilities are used now by Trans-Canada Air Lines and other Atlantic air services but Scots are far from happy about the way Whitehall has brushed off their plans for a greater Prestwick.

In a letter to Lord Pakenham, minister of civil aviation, the central committee of the Scottish chambers of commerce complained that while pleading lack of funds for Prestwick, the ministry has lavished millions on London airport.

Missing Executive Found In Flophouse

TORONTO, Jan. 13—(CP)—Missing from his home since Nov. 19, John W. Hallam, 47, president of Hallam Sporting Goods, was found last night in a city hostel which provides beds for nearly 200 jobless men. Hallam, who had been working for a car-washing firm, told police he left home "to see how the other half lives."

New Edmonton Spirit

Two significant facts emerged from Mayor Sidney Parsons' special meeting to discuss means of "putting Edmonton on the map."

1. The large number of people and organizations conforming with the belief that Edmonton needs putting on the map and,

2. The large number of people and organizations anxious to do something about it.

This special meeting was important, therefore, not so much because of the various promotional ideas presented, but because it displayed a brand new Edmonton spirit of enthusiasm and civic zeal that has seldom been shown in this community before.

Some of the plans proposed were good.

For example, the winter sports and the winter carnival in June both have high potentialities.

Some of the plans proposed were bad.

For example, to capitalize on Edmonton's diversity of racial origins with citizens of foreign birth wearing the national costumes of their land of origin from June to September each year would be to emphasize a purely fictitious difference between themselves and native born Canadians.

Good citizenship demands that Canadians of foreign origin think of themselves as merely Canadians and not as hyphenate Canadians. This proposal concerning foreign costumes would not fulfill that demand.

But whether the detailed ideas presented were good, bad or indifferent, the important point is that the representatives of 36 organizations sat down togther in the finest community spirit to discuss, in a warm and friendly way, the psychological needs of their city.

In this fact alone was the primary purpose of Mayor Parsons' commendable idea accomplished.

For the putting of Edmonton on the map depends not so much on selling Edmonton to outsiders as on selling Edmonton to Edmontonians.

The first promotional essential to any city is that the people of that city themselves should believe firmly and enthusiastically in their community.

The vital essence of salesmanship is that the salesman should know and love his own product.

Details and technique are unimportant beside that.

No More Option Extensions

The one dollar option granted to John C. Boright of Montreal on property in the civic centre for construction of the proposed $8,000,000 Glenton hotel expires Monday, January 16, and unless the $150,000 purchase price of the property is deposited by that date the deal should be completely written off.

One extension has already been given by the city on this option and any further extension would merely prolong negotiations that, if not completed now, have no reasonable chance of ever being completed.

All Edmonton hopes that Mr. Boright will take up his option and make the requisite deposit of $150,000 now and $2,000,000 on June 10 so that work on the much needed structure may proceed in due course.

Edmonton requires every inch of additional hotel space that can be provided. And Glenton hotels are hotels of high repute, excellently managed and appointed.

But Mr. Boright has already made too many promises and too many positive statements of quick action.

From now on, only money should talk.

And so the circumstances of the negotiations have been so frequently disappointing that to prolong them without some definite monetary consideration would simply make the hotel situation static in Edmonton.

For no other hotel organization is going to investigate the possibility of establishing here while the Glenton deal is hanging fire.

Any further delays in the Glenton proposition, then, would only serve to postpone any other steps that might be taken to alleviate Edmonton's acute hotel accommodation shortage.

Doing Something About the Zoo

The proposed formation of a zoological society in Edmonton to promote, expand and finance development of the Edmonton zoo is one of the brightest ideas produced by the Junior Chamber of Commerce whose members have been notably fruitful in bright ideas.

For a matter of some years Edmonton people have been uneasy about their zoo.

They have felt that a display consisting of 39 animals of 15 varieties and 267 birds of 40 species did not constitute a showing worthy of Edmonton's dignity as a large and growing city.

They have felt that the conditions under which these creatures were maintained were not always suitable and sometimes not even quite humane.

They have wondered whether the Borden Park site was the best under all circumstances.

This uneasiness has now been translated into definite action.

The Junior Chamber, having examined all the circumstances, concludes that a zoo is necessary as an educational factor.

It concludes that Borden Park is too flat for a suitable site and recommends that the zoo be moved to Mill Creek on 88 avenue.

With these conclusions most citizens will agree.

But most of all they will agree with the proposal that a zoological society be organized to make the zoo its special concern and personal interest.

By this means, the zoo will no longer be everybody's business, which is nobody's business, but the special business of an interested and informed group.

A zoo can be of tremendous educational value to Edmonton if it is properly located and if the exhibits are kept under conditions which are both humane and in keeping with the natural habits of the animals.

A zoological society should be able to see that this is done and to find funds for the doing of it.

Dwarf Cars Challenge Older, Larger Models

WASHINGTON—All over the place suddenly we've got little automobiles in the works. Particularly me. I'm riding in one. Only trouble with it is that people laugh when I scoot past 'em at 50 miles per hour—also—per gallon.

I'd like to take full credit for this effort to please the motorist who wants a ride instead of a private locomotive on rubber tires, but I'm afraid it's mostly coincidence. Recently you may remember I penned a sad little piece about how I wished to buy for $712 another Model A Ford as satisfactory as the one I owned in 1931. So:

OTHMAN

The following day Henry Kaiser signed a contract with the Jeep people to manufacture the engine in his small, $1,000 car. Then came George Mason, the boss of the Nash-Kelvinator Co., with his shiny red model of another automobile designed to retail for about the same price. I got a long look at this one in a hotel ballroom and it was a beauty, but Mason kept velvet ropes around it and I had no chance to see how it ran.

Simultaneously a fellow with a French accent in New York phoned to say if I wanted an efficient, little automobile, he had one. He said he was driving it down for me to try out for a couple of weeks and, so help me, he did.

Green Beetle

If you have to jump to escape a glistening green beetle that goes bee-beep, that's Othman in his borrowed Renault. The doggonest car I ever drove. And also the tiniest.

She's 12 feet long, holds a spare tire under the hood along with my big feet and a suitcase, and carries her 19-horsepower engine over the rear axle, where other automobiles stick their gas tanks. She snorts along a little more noisily than American cars and she's a tight fit for the customers in the back seat, but in general I've got to doff my derby to those Paris auto designers.

They seem to have put into her in miniature everything that Preston Tucker said he intended to give his car of tomorrow and didn't I wish she were a smidgen bigger, so I wouldn't look so much like a procession of circus clowns when I climb out, but on the other hand I like the way she holds the road without squealing around corners and how she drinks gas daintily from an eyedropper, instead of gulping it from a bucket.

Those Frenchmen seemed to have thought of everything, including a crank, which I long have considered an important accessory. They also took note of the fact that every automobile engine gets hot and has a fan to cool it off.

Blow Heat

So they use this same fan to blow this same heat, via twin ducts at no extra cost, to the feet of the passengers.

I can't stick my head out of my sedan and this cramps my style, but the window glass doesn't go down in the doors. The windows slide sideways for ventilation purposes and since I can't put my hand out for turning corners, Mr. Renault has installed blinkers to signal my intentions.

So I drove her to work for the first time, ignoring the snug smiles of motorists in cars that loomed like mountains beside me, and hummed into the garage where I usually park my full-sized sedan. The man didn't exactly laugh out loud at the sight, but he waved me from the regular parking area and into a kind of broom closet at the side of the aisle. He charged the regular price, though.

What I mean is that there seems to be nothing wrong with small cars. The trouble's with the people who think they're funny. Maybe Messrs. Kaiser and Nash will help dispel this unseemly laughter.

Letters to the Editor

Offers Help

Editor, Bulletin—I am writing to tell you that your newspaper, The Bulletin, is a disgrace—hardly fit for a one horse town.

It is badly written, bundled together and sold in varying shades of paper for the sole purpose—in so far as I can ascertain—of lighting fires.

Why do you not cut some of the rubbish and print intelligent, readable material? May I suggest a book review, a theatre critic, a motorist, a country column, a provincial parliamentary reporter, a radio critic?

The improvements could be legion.

Tray a few; brighten the paper; insist on good writing, good printing and better advertisements.

If, after all that, you are interested in publishing a worthwhile farming paper—a paper Canada sorely needs—I can be of assistance.

Garbage Trucks

Editor, Bulletin—The city of Edmonton could instal a hydraulic stand in the back of each garbage truck that is on the job today at very little cost.

The stand is operated from the back. It goes up and down to any position desired.

The Canadian Liquid Air Co. Ltd. has one on its truck.

Time to Retire

Editor, Bulletin.—In reply to our mayor's statement in your January 3rd edition, he stated that he was not in favor of keeping civic employes on the payroll after they reach the retirement age.

Why, then, does he not carry out his word in full? It is his duty to do so. But Mr. Mayor says that Haddow and Ruff are indispensable, and these key men must be kept at their jobs.

Edmonton cannot possibly be so in need of younger men that it cannot produce four men to fill the jobs.

When President Roosevelt died (he was a key man), the war did not stop. Instantaneously another man was in his stead, a better man because he was alive the former dead.

What would Sid do if his "key men were suddenly "not available" for duty? Surely, Sid, there are younger men or assistants to your pensioners who could replace them. It is nothing but right that they should go and give the younger and more mentally alert men a chance, so, Sidney, be fair and carry out your convictions, because there are a lot of people who would hold this as a black mark against you next time you are on the slate at our next election.

Haddow and Ruff and the other two have had a good innings, so out with them.

QUESTION:

Is Edmonton cold preferable to Vancouver fog?

THE ANSWERS:

Jimmy Thompson, milkman, 10330-112 street: I prefer the climate here to any place I have been all across Canada or in the States. Out at the coast when it gets cold you really feel it. That damp seems to go right through you. I've been here 21 years now so I guess I know the Edmonton climate pretty well and I figure it's tops. I'm sure Edmonton is a lot healthier place to live than Vancouver.

William Stiles, Hut 1033 U.S. Air Base: I prefer the cold. I've never lived in Vancouver but I know I can't stand dampness. During the war I was stationed with the RCAF near Lake Ontario and I didn't like it a bit. I wasn't healthy either. I guess it's a lot wetter in Vancouver than it is in Ontario so I guess I'd like it even less there. Edmonton's OK as far as I'm concerned.

LAC. Don Hinderks, 435 Squadron, Station Edmonton, RCAF: This climate's OK for me. I was stationed down on the east coast and, oh boy, the cold down there was really something—it went right through you. It doesn't get nearly as cold there, according to the thermometer, as it does here but that doesn't mean a thing. I'll take the dry cold any day.

Mrs. L. H. Pope, housewife, Hut 1015, U.S. Air Base: I'll take Edmonton, too. The dry cold is better than the dampness any time. I was out there a few years ago and I didn't like it a bit. During the winter there it's raining most of the time and when it isn't raining it's cloudy and foggy. I like Edmonton and sunshine.

Frank Wong, cafe operator, 8228-103 street: I like Edmonton and I like the people here. I think Edmonton is a better town to do business in than Vancouver, but I sure don't like Edmonton weather. Out in Vancouver, I never noticed the rain — nobody does. But everyone notices the cold here. In Vancouver, you put on a raincoat and you stay dry. But here in Edmonton, it doesn't matter how many clothes you put on, you're still going to feel cold—especially your nose and ears

Three Kings

Editor, Bulletin—The editorial on the lesson of the Epiphany arrested my attention and this is the reason. The writer talks about the three wise men or magi visiting Jesus.

Now what puzzles me is where do people get the idea that it was three men. The Bible nowhere mentions three. It just states "there came wise men from the east." Matt. 2:1. As for the three gifts, they certainly do not prove that there were three men because even half a dozen men could have each brought three gifts. Many people would be surprised if they only knew how much of the Bible contents they take for granted.

Another example is where the writer of this editorial mentions that these magi were led by divine inspiration to Jesus but closer examination of the Bible shows that it was by God's adversary, the Devil, that they were led. It was to satisfy their curiosity that they came and if by divine inspiration why did this star lead them to Herod first instead of the house where Jesus was? We can easily see the answer in Matt. 2:3, where it shows how Herod was affected by their visit. Satan knew that Herod would be incited to jealousy and fear for his kingdom by the visit of these far off pagan worshippers and would set out to destroy the babe Jesus.

Still another strange thing is that people imagine that these magi came to Jesus while he was in the manger with the star standing over the barn but in the Bible it shows that no such thing took place on the day of Jesus' birth, in fact it must have been months after that the magi came to Jesus as travel was slow by camels and they came from the Orient, which was a mighty long ways. Matthew 2:11 states that it was in the house they found Jesus, not in the barn. It was the shepherds that saw Jesus at the time of his birth. It was the Angels that told them where to find him and certainly no star appeared to the shepherds—for proof read Luke, Chapter 2.

We see that Herod allowed them almost two years to find the child and come back to him so he must have realized it took time to travel the way they did at that time. Remember they had no trains and jet-propelled planes in those days.

So let us not take God's word for granted but "study to show thyself approved" if you want to know the truth because the Bible says "Ye shall know the Truth and the Truth shall make you free."

(Mrs.) DORA SCHWEITZER.
Lloydminster, Sask.

Lower Roofs

Editor, Bulletin—To judge from remarks by various individuals (including columnists) in your newspaper, the RCAF, USAF and commercial airlines take their greatest pleasure in seeing how close to Edmonton rooftops they can fly and how many hospital patients they can annoy.

Did it ever occur to the misguided critics that perhaps this unfortunate situation can't be helped? The two safety factors for any aircraft are airspeed and altitude, and since we are as anxious to stay alive as the next person, the whole business of complaints borders on the ridiculous.

Therefore, to keep in line with the absurdity, we who fly DEMAND that the citizens of Edmonton lower all buildings in line with runways to a maximum of four inches above street level.

Envies Beach Boys On Honolulu Sands

HONOLULU.—I would like to try to make an accurate presentation of a much-exaggerated profession, that of beach boy. I am very fond of beach boys and wish I had talent enough to be one.

Beach boys are named things like Chick and Turkey and Curley and Jimmy and Panama and Mystery and Tough Bill and Steamboat and Melvin. They inhabit the beach front at Waikiki, on salary, to teach the tourists how to fall off surfboards. They hand out towels, umbrellas, suntan oil and advice. This advice is delivered in a kind of spoken shorthand, which may be based on the English language or may be a unique tongue, according to how many beers have been involved in its delivery.

Beach boys are not servants. They are not gigolos, although I never heard of one ducking a pass if one was pitched. Beach boys are not entertainers, although they all play ukes and guitars and sing and do the hula. I do not know precisely what a beach boy is, except sunburned, unless you could call him a philosopher.

A beach boy in true standing has small regard for money. The ones I know do not grovel for tips or cadge drinks or give a damn about how much money a tourist has. He treats the tourist as an equal, and if the tourist earns the right to respect—then gradually he may be included in the inner circle of beach boys, a high compliment indeed.

Skill, Probity

These men are carefully selected for their skill and probity by the hotels who employ them to instruct in swimming, surfing and canoeing. For the guest's life and reputation are in the boy's hand when they cross the reef.

Parents trust their children in their care, and when the children grow up to be parents they turn over their kids to the same boys to teach. Friendships have been formed between guests and the boys to the point where millionaires have entertained them regally in their mainland homes and have even taken them to Europe, but the boys have a scorn for money unless it is accompanied by personal charm.

It is a tight association, ruled spiritually by Sheriff Duke Kahanamoku and officially by Chick Daniels, called Pappy by all. Pappy is in his middle 50s, gray, but still strong as a bull and a great man either with a bottle, a uke or a hula. Pappy's inspired hula may be one of the great artistic achievements of the age. When any of Pappy's boys get out of line Pappy lowers the boom, and the boys do not get out of line again soon.

Music, Whisky

When a beach boy dies his ashes are scattered on the ocean that gave him his livelihood, and each Christmas the boys throw a party on the beach after they have strewn memorial flowers on the ocean. This may be a good indication of the temperament of the beach boy. He sees no reason to sob over departed brothers, but throws a whing-ding of a party that lasts until the booze or the boys wear out. And I have never known the booze to outlast the boys.

The beach boy loves to have enough money in his pocket to grab a check for a fast beer when his head hurts, but he is uninterested in real estate, capital gains, ulcers and the other boons of wealth. He stays on the beach until he dies, and his life is composed of equal amounts of music, sunshine, friendship, whisky, romance, poker games and measured conversation. No psychiatrists fatten off his complexes, because he has no complexes.

Social status of the beach boys is unique. They have a basic equality with the richest and the fanciest social folk of the island, and they never work at it because they don't really care. They are the best-adjusted folk I ever met, among the kindest, and certainly the most tolerant of all foibles, including their own.

I wish I were one of their band, except I am a bum on a surfboard and cannot hula worth a dime and could never achieve their social eminence—and apart from all that could never hope to compete with Panama in the romantic league.

U.S. Has No Policy In Far East Mess

WASHINGTON—While events in the Far East are unfolding with the speed of a locomotive moving downhill at full throttle, the formulation of an American policy to fit the needs of the immensely disturbing situation that has developed in that part of the world appears to be proceeding with the leisureliness of a tea party at a vicarage.

Outwardly, at east, our policy makers are in no hurry.

Ambassador Philip Jessup, who has been heading a Far Eastern policy survey group at the state department, is on his way to the Orient by slow stages.

His report may not be available for months.

A delay is also inevitable in the drawing up of a Far Eastern defense policy.

As a result of the Communist victory in China, the balance of power in Asia has been radically altered, not in our favor. Taking cognizance of this imperious fact, the joint chiefs of staff have decided to hold a meeting in Tokyo. However, General Bradley and his colleagues do not plan to leave for General MacArthur's headquarters until next month.

Time Moves

But time is not standing still in the Far East.

The Communists have now overrun practcially the entire mainland of China, with the Nationals bottled up in their fortress island of Formosa.

If the Nationalists have the will to resist, there is no reason why, with the arms and equipment they still possess, they should not be able to hold on to Formosa indefinitely.

If they lack that will, nothing short of a large-scale American military occupation of the island, with all the enormous problems, responsibilities and dangers such such a course would bring in its wake could save Formosa.

Unheroic as it is, therefore, a wait-and-see policy regarding Formosa makes sense at this time. But the unavoidable corollary of such a policy must be continued recognition of the Nationalist regime as the legitimate government of China.

In this respect, however, we soon may be out of step with many nations on our side.

Already India has recognized the Chinese Communist regime and Great Britain has followed suit. A dangerous cleavage thus is in process of developing which, unless checked, can be infinitely damaging to the entire free world.

Symptomatic is the thinly veiled suggestion of Senator William F. Knowland of California, hitherto a strong supporter of the bipartisan policy as pursued by the United States in Europe, that if Great Britain refuses to hold up recognition of the Chinese Communists, we should suspend further Marshall plan aid to her.

This proposal is little short of bewildering. It must rest on the assumption, if it has any logical basis at all, that Marshall plan aid is outright charity rather than an enlightened and statesmanlike expression of profound self-interest.

Piqued by British refusal to go along with our negative policy in China, Senator Knowland would compound through the action he suggests, the major defeat we have suffered in the Far East by what easily might develop into an even more disastrous defeat in Europe.

It is just as true now as it was after Pearl Harbor that the war—this time the cold war—will be won or lost not in the Far East but in Europe.

In Europe, the tide of Communist Imperialism has been checked. But the pressures from the East remain and they are certain to break through if we relax our guards, dissipate the unity among the North Atlantic nations that we have succeeded in building up so painfully and at so great a cost, and begin fighting among ourselvees.

Certainly, we cannot expect other nations to follow us if we ourselves do not know where we are going. For months on end we have had no policy regarding China worthy of the name. In view of that it is not surprising that other nations are examining what they consider their self-interest and are acting accordingly. Until we formulate something resembling a coherent, constructive and workable policy toward China, we have no cause to complain of that.

Smiles

"How did Light-Fingered Fred get caught?"

"He's getting short-sighted. Thought he was turning the knob of a safe, and tuned in to Variety Bandbox."

"My wife always lets me have the last word!" exulted the husband of two months.

"Huh!" snorted a seasoned oldtimer; "just wait until you run out of compliments, young feller!"

Destroy Cancer Tissue By ACTH in Leukemia

By Alton L. Blakeslee

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The hormone ACTH brings dramatic recoveries from acute leukemia, the quick-killing blood cancer, three physicians announced last night.

But these recoveries may be only temporary. It is still too early to tell, they said.

They told of tests on three children and two adults. All five recovered after getting the hormone for 24 to 30 days.

The disease came back in one child three weeks later. Acth again stopped it. The other four were still well with almost no sign of leukemia from one day to five weeks after getting the hormone.

The report was made by Drs. O. H. Pearson, L. P. Eliel and T. R. Talbot, Jr., of the Sloan-Kettering Institute and Memorial hospital, famous cancer centre here.

Leukema is a cancer-like blood disease, in which the body produces too many white cells. Up to now, at least, it's been hopeless. Children getting it live an average of five to six months.

The fact that all five improved stamps Acth as the best treatment yet found for acute leukemia.

Buck-Passing Laid To Sask.

REGINA, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last night the Saskatchewan government is "passing the buck" on the question of marketing of farm products.

He said the CCF government has asked continually for enabling legislation from the Dominion in the field of farm products marketing. One year ago the Federal government passed legislation which enabled the utilization of Provincial Marketing Acts.

"However, the Saskatchewan government has not yet taken advantage of this enabling legislation," said Mr. Gardiner, a former premier of Saskatchewan.

"I ask you, who is passing the buck?"

He noted that with the possible exception of Newfoundland all other Canadian provinces possess marketing acts.

Oil Company Denies Wages At Brandon Low

BRANDON, Man., Jan. 13.—(CP)—An official of Anglo-Canadian Oils Ltd., today denied a union contention that Brandon was the lowest wage area in Canada.

The answer was directed at Alex. McAuslane of Ottawa, first vice-president of the Canadian Congress of Labor. Mr. McAuslane told reporters in Winnipeg that wages, "particularly in the oil industry," were lower here than anywhere else in the country.

R. J. Christian, general manager of Anglo-Canadian, said oil workers get from 73 cents to $1.26 hourly, with time-and-a-half for overtime, two weeks' holidays with pay, and group and hospital insurance on a 50-50 basis with the employer.

He said the wage schedule here is on a par with any other refinery of its type in Canada.

Four Men Save Ontario Schoolboy

KENORA, Jan. 13. — (CP) — Prompt action by four Kenora men saved the life of six-year-old Allan Perron when he plunged through weak ice on his way home from school Wednesday.

Reg Heppelle, Mel Bays, Mev Carlson and Bill Boyle formed a human chain on the edge of Laurenson's creek at the edge of town to pull the boy out.

Work Starts Soon

HALIFAX, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Reconstruction Minister Winters said last night that he hoped construction on the proposed 5,000-mile Trans-Canada Highway will begin this summer. In an interview just before he sailed for a two-week's vacation in Bermuda, Mr. Winters said seven of the 10 provinces had submitted either a positive or tentative plan of the routes the highway would take in their provinces.

Robinson Denies Dictator Charge

Will Disagree 'More Violently' Minister Tells Labor Group

CALGARY, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Labor Minister J. L. Robinson yesterday advised the Industrial Federation of Labor of Alberta (CCL) to "keep out of politics because it will destroy your effectiveness as a trade union movement and you will slowly become a political organization."

Dr. Robinson, addressing 50 delegates attending the annual convention of the federation, replied to criticism by Federation spokesmen that the provincial government took little heed of requested changes in the Labor Act.

"ALBERTA DICTATORSHIP"

Jack Hampson of Edmonton, president, said Dr. Robinson had been quoted as saying the federation had not much hope of getting what they wanted in one of their requests for Labor Act changes.

"That is nothing more or less than dictatorship," said Mr. Hampson. "That is exactly what Stalin would do and that is the kind of legislation we are getting in Alberta."

"I deny absolutely that that is the truth," interjected the Labor minister.

"I say to all our delegates," continued Mr. Hampson, "that it is time we took an active interest in what is going on in the province.

"If we submit a brief we want that brief submitted to the legislature so they can form their own opinion on what we ask."

"I DISAGREE VIOLENTLY"

Dr. Robinson told delegates he had disagreed with their policies a year ago and "I am going to disagree with them more violently today."

He dealt at length with the industrial harmony of the province which he said is not an accident. It was not because there were more peace-loving people in Alberta than the rest of Canada but because of the policy of the government in its labor-management conferences.

"I believe my policies are right. I believe they are in the best interests of the working people of the province and of every citizen in the province."

About 30 amendments to the labor act would be put before the legislature, he said. They will benefit labor.

STAY OUT OF POLITICS

"I disagree with you hooking on to any political party," the minister said. "I said last year that you would come back this year with a reduced membership instead of an increased membership so do not forget what I am saying now.

"Eventually you will be left with a membership which does not represent the workers of the province but who represent a political party. Those are my convictions.

"I do not want to ruin trade unions."

Pensioner Dead In Little Shack

KENORA, Ont., Jan. 13.—(CP)—Stanley Brezinski, an old-age pensioner, was found dead in his one-room shack at Reddit, Ont., 20 miles north of here, it was learned yesterday.

It is believed the man died about Jan. 8. The body was found lying on the floor of the locked shack by W. Ramanchuk and W. Dentry of Reddit who came to visit. Brezinski had not been seen for several days.

Brezinski came from Poland and took up residence in Reddit several years ago after living in Winnipeg. It is believed he had a wife and family in Poland.

Sunken Gold Hoard Gives Salvage Dream

Special to The Bulletin

DARWIN, Australia, Jan. 13.—(BUP)—Two Sydney men were a act today to start on the bigges and possibly most lucrative, se salvage job in Australia.

They hoped to bring up th cargoes of four ships sunk b Japanese bombers in Darwin harbor in 1942. Two of the ships were known to be filled with trucks and jeeps. One, the Zealandia, contained hundreds of tons of corrugated fibro roofing sheets and a big load of liquor consigned to Darwin garrison.

Behind the treasure hunt were young deep-sea diver Carl Atkinson, and Sydney car battery manufacturer, T. J. Massey, who bought the rights to the ships and their cargoes from the Australian government.

Atkinson and Massey were most excited about recovering a large quantity of gold pesos from the U.S. destroyer Peary supposed to have been brought out of the Phillipines. Although they lacked official confirmation, rumors persisted it was there and was worth anything from $1,120,000 to $2,240,000.

About a yeear ago, Capt. Athride rant, commander of the U.S. destroyer Preston which was near e Peary when it sank, said in ashington he had no knowledge the Pearys reported hoard.

There was one catch to the low rice—said to be less than $20,000—the salvagers paid for the unnown cargoes. No one knew here the Peary and Zealandia ere lying, and there are many quare miles of water in Darwin harbor.

The other ships, the U.S. war lepartment 12,500-ton freighter Meigs and the 9,000-ton Matson liner Mauna Loa, would be easier to locate and work on, the two fortune-hunters said.

Widow Christens Lighthouse Ship

VANCOUVER, Jan. 13—(CP)—An attractive widow smashed a bottle of champagne and a $1,000,000 ship dedicated to the safety of Canadian mariners slipped into the harbor.

A handfull of government officials and guests watched as Mrs. Helen Mackenzie, widow of Sen. Ian Mackenzie, launched the M. V. Alexander Mackenzie, Canada's third new lighthouse tender.

In a speed test, tennis star Big Bill Tilden hit a tennis ball 118 miles an hour.

President's Cars Being Retired After 12 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—(CP)—Three hardy veterans of the United States secret service are about to go into retirement.

They all have picturesque names—Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth and Sunshine Special.

They are the three White House limousines, long shiny convertibles, heavily armored and otherwise unconventionally built. They have played an important part in the terms of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

Now 12 years old, the cars are serving out their last days of presidential use. Though they still have plenty of power under the hood, replacements are on order and are expected any day.

These much-travelled cars have gone about 130,000 miles each under their own power and many thousands more by ship and rail.

One was at Yalta for the Big Three conference and others went to Ottawa for presidential visits.

Fire Chief Drunk Was Just A Joke

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 13.—(CP)—Canada's fire-chiefs, aroused over a slighting reference to their annual meeting as "just a good drunk" can relax. Labor leader Robert Spears said that his remark wasn't intended to be taken seriously.

Rare Drug Experiment Slated Here Tomorrow

Rare drug, cortisone, which medical authorities hope is the answer to arthritis, will be used tomorrow in a medical experiment at the University of Alberta, The Bulletin learned today.

The drug is being made available in a very limited quantity for research purposes only and will not be available for treatment of arthritics.

Dr. R. M. Bow, deputy minister of public health today confirmed the report that the drug will be used here experimentally.

"A very, very limited quantity is being obtained; it will be used only for one experiment, and I believe it will be at least two or three years before cortisone is available in sufficient quantities to permit treatment of arthritic cases," Dr. Bow said.

STARTS TOMORROW

The experiment will begin tomorrow at the University of Alberta, with the patient an 18-year-old youth from the Lethbridge district.

The local experiment will seek to determine the value of cortisone in the case of rheumatic heart disease.

The work will be carried on by a team of experts in the field, it was stated.

Only about three grams of the drug which is being made available to the local group by the National Research Council, will be used.

Findings of the researchers will be known in several weeks.

Girls' Hockey Team Planned

WETASKIWIN, Jan. 13—If plans underway now materialize, Wetaskiwin will soon have a girls' hockey team. Plans are now being formulated and the girls are seeking a manager and coach.

The girls feel they can put up just as good a show on ice as they did during the summer months in softball and though it is a little late in the season to be organizing they think they still have time to put on a good show.

Train Crews In City Put Out of Work

Spreading across the prairies, a result of the curtailment of CNR service Monday, is a "comparatively heavy" lay-off to train crew employes.

This was confirmed in Edmonton today by E. G. Skelding, CN superintendant of transportation.

He was commenting on a news story from Winnipeg that a heavy lay-off of the running trade employes was expected there shortly.

Mr. Skelding admitted that about 30 men—the equivalent of six train crews—were faced with unemployment here because of the service cut.

Service was curtailed this week by 25 per cent in the province due to coal shortages.

Train crew members include engineers, firemen, trainmen, conductors and brakemen.

Outside this category no lay-off of staff is being anticipated, Mr. Skelding stated.

He explained that heavy obligations in freight shipping, including coal and oil shipments, assure other departments of full time employment.

A union official in Winnipeg said that until employes have re-adjusted themselves on a seniority basis it will be impossible to get an "authentic" picture ofth e extent of the lay-off.

Calgarian Heads Automotive Group

CALGARY, Jan. 13 — (CP) — Albert Dyson of Calgary was elected president of the Automotive Trade Association (Alberta) at the provincial group's annual meeting here Monday. He succeeds Roy Beny, of Brooks.

E. B. Olsen of Edmonton was elected first vice-president and W. H. Payne, Didsbury, second vice-president. M. H. C. Ford of Didsbury, was chosen treasurer and G. E. Watt, of Calgary re-elected secretary manager.

RHYTHMIC MOTIONS of South American music are adapted to ice, when Yvonne Broder features in Fiesta in "Ice Cycles of 1950." This is only one of seven great production numbers to be seen in "Ice Cycles of 1950" at Edmonton Gardens January 30 to February 4.

Seed Plant Manager Resigns

WETASKIWIN, Jan. 13 — At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Wetaskiwin Seed Cleaning Association the resignation of J. E. Bird as manager was received and accepted. No reason was given for the resignation.

George Rasmussen was appointed foreman of the cleaning plant with W. H. Whiteside, supervisor of the municipal district, appointed temporary manager. It is hoped to have a new manager within two weeks.

Plant is now being tuned up and two carloads of oats from Falher, south of Peace River are now being cleaned. Immediate consignments from district farmers cannot yet be handled. The plant manager is receiving many enquiries, both as to when grain can be cleaned and also is obtaining registered seed for spring sowing.

THE Young Lions

By Irwin Shaw

Noah Ackerman and his friend Burnecker crouch in a foxhole awaiting a new advance. Michael Whitacre, the other American soldier in this story has been so moved by his experiences in France that he intends to give up his philandering life and marry Margaret Freemantle if he ever returns safely to the United States. He has asked for transfer to a combat unit but has been turned down. Meanwhile the third "Young Lion" Christian Diestl, is with his fellow demoralized Germans somewhere between the invasion coast and Paris. Now go on with the story—

CHAPTER TWENTY

"I'LL BE BACK"

At nine o'clock the planes started to come over. B-17's, B-24's, Mitchell's, Marauders. Noah had never seen so many planes in his whole life.

"It's about time," Burnecker said sourly. "The stinking Air Force. They should've been here three days ago."

Noah watched without saying anything, as flak from the German guns began to bloom in black puffs among the glistening shapes so high above the lines.

Burnecker was right. The attack was to have started three days before. But the weather had been bad. Yesterday the Air Forces had sent some planes over, but the clouds had closed in and after an opening bombardment, the planes had gone back and the infantry had clung to its holes. But this morning, there was no doubt about it.

"It's sunny enough today," Burnecker said, "to kill the whole German Army from 30,000 feet."

At eleven o'clock, after the Air Forces had theoretically destroyed or demolished all opposition in front of the massed American troops on the ground, the infantry was to move, open a hole for the armor, and keep it open for the rolling fresh divisions which would pierce deep into the German rear. Lieutenant Green, who was now in command of the Company, had explained it all very clearly to them. While the men had on the surface kept a cool skepticism about this neat arrangement, it was impossible now, watching the terrible precision of the huge aircraft above them, not to feel that this was going to be easy.

Anti-Aircraft Guns Silenced

"God," Burnecker whispered, "why don't they stop? That's enough, that's enough. What do they want to do, make mince pie?"

By now, the German anti-aircraft guns had been silenced and the planes wheeled calmly overhead, as safely as though they were conducting maneuvers over Wright Field.

Then there was a whistling around him, a roaring and upheaval of the green earth. Burnecker grabbed him and dragged him down into the hole. They crouched together, as far down as they could get, their legs jumbled together, their helmets touching, as bomb after bomb hit around them, deafening them, covering them with a pelting shower of earth, stones and broken twigs.

They heard screams on all sides of them and the cries of the wounded. But it was impossible to get out of the hole while the bombs poured down in a rattling, closely spaced barrage.

"Oh, the miserable, easy-living, extra-pay murderers," Burnecker was saying. "They won't leave one of us alive."

This will be the final thing the army will do to me, Noah thought, it will kill me itself. It won't trust the Germans to do the job. They just mustn't tell Hope how it happened. She mustn't over know the Americans did it to me . . .

"They don't care," Burnecker shouted. "They don't care who the hell they hit. They got a standing order to drop a hundred tons of bombs a day. They don't care if they drop it on their own mothers!"

"Let the Medics Clean 'em up . . ."

Then, miraculously, the bombing stopped. The noise of engines still continued above them, but somehow, a correction had been made, and the planes were moving on to other targets.

Burnecker slowly stood up and looked out. "Oh, God," he said brokenly, at what he saw.

Trembling, feeling his knees weak beneath him, Noah began to stand too. But Burnecker pushed him down.

"Stay down," Burnecker said harshly. "Let the Medics clean 'em up. They're mostly replacements anyway. Stay where you are."

He shook Noah violently. His eyes were wild, his mouth was working, his voice was hoarse with the intensity of his belief, tested now so many times, on the water of the Channel, in the beseiged stone farmhouse, in the sliding salt tide of the canal on the night that Cowley had drowned.

"You got to promise me, Noah," Burnecker whispered, "we don't let them break us up. Never! No matter how hard they try! Promise me!"

Noah began to cry, the tears rolling down his checks softly and helplessly at his friend's need and mystic faith. "Sure, Johnny," he said.

* * *

Twenty minutes later what was left of the Company got up from the line of foxholes and advanced to the positions from which they had withdrawn to give the planes a margin for error. Then they broke through the hedge and started across the bomb-marked field toward where the Germans were theoretically all dead or demoralized.

It seemed to take the line a long time to get to the cover of the embankment, but finally they were there. Automatically, without a signal, the men threw themselves into the small ditch, against the safe grassy slope of the shielding embankment, although there still hadn't been a shot fired at them. They lay there, as though this had been a dear objective and they had fought for days to reach it.

"The war ain't over!" It was Rickett's voice, the same tone, whether he was snarling at a man to clean a latrine in Florida or charge a machine-gun post in Normandy. "Get up over that there ditch."

Noah and Burnecker lay slyly, with heads averted against the soft sloping grass, pretending that Rickett was not there, that Rickett was not alive.

Rickett Calls For Advance

Three or four of the replacements stood up, with a jangle of equipment, and started climbing heavily up. Rickett followed them and stood at the top shouting down at the rest of the men.

Regretfully, Noah and Burnecker stood up and clambered up the slippery six feet. The rest of the men around them slowly were doing the same thing. Burnecker, who reached the top first, helped Noah. They stood for a moment, peering ahead of them.

As he took the first few steps across the quiet field, following the other men, Noah hated Rickett more fiercely than he ever had before.

Then, without warning, the machine guns started. There were the high screams of thousands of bullets around him, and men falling, before he heard the distant mechanical rattling sound of the guns themselves.

The line hesitated for a moment, the men staring bewilderedly at the enigmatic hedge from which the fire came.

"Come on! Come on!" Richett's voice yelled crazily over the noise of the guns. "Keep moving!"

Brutal Sergeant No Longer

But half the men were down by now. Noah grabbed Burnecker's arm, and they turned and raced, crouching low, the few yards back to the edge of the embankment. They flung themselves down, sobbing for breath, into the green safety of the ditch. Rickett appeared on the brink, swaying crazily, waving his arms around, shouting something thickly through an arching spout of blood that seemed to come from his throat. He was hit again and slid face down on top of Noah. Noah could feel the hot wetness of the sergeant's blood on his face. He pulled back, although Rickett was clinging to him, his hands around Noah's shoulders, gripping into the pack-harness on his back.

"Oh, you bathtards!" Rickett said distinctly, "oh, you bathtards!" Then he relaxed and slithered into the ditch at Noah's feet.

"Dead," Burnecker said. "Finally dead."

Noah stared at Rickett, lying dead five feet away from him. Rickett's eyes were wide open and there was a bloody grimace of anger and command on his face. His throat was badly torn open under the raw mouth. Noah tried to make himself be pleased with the sight of his dead enemy, but he found it was impossible. Rickett, by the act of dying, had changed from the brutal sergeant, the vicious bully, and foul-mouthed killer, and had become another dead American, a lost friend, a vanished ally . . .

Noah, Burnecker Finally Parted

He sighed as he saw Lieutenant Green walking toward him, urging the men out once more. Then he and Burnecker started out again.

Noah was hit in the first ten feet, and Burnecker dragged him back behind the safety of the hedge.

An aid man came up with surprising speed. Noah had lost a great deal of blood very quickly and he felt cold and remote and the aid man's face swam above him dreamily. Burnecker crouched beside them, weeping, weeping . . .

"Noah, Noah," the boy from Iowa was sobbing, "how do you feel? Are you all right?"

Noah thought he was smiling up at Johnny Burnecker, but after awhile he realized nothing much was happening on his face, no matter how hard he tried to move it. And it was getting terribly cold, very cold for summer, very cold for noon, very cold for France, very cold for July and a young man . . .

"Johnny," he managed to whisper. "Don't worry, Johnny. Take care of yourself. I'll be back. Johnny, honest, I'll be back . . ."

They lifted Noah onto a stretcher and started carrying him back. Noah raised his head. Seated on the ground, with his helmet off, abandoned to grief, sat Johnny Burnecker, weeping for his friend. Noah tried to call out to him, to assure him that all in the end would turn out well, but no sound came from his throat. He dropped his head and closed his eyes, as he was borne away, because he could not bear to see his deserted friend any more.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Ah, the wonder of the movies! Now they're making Maureen O'Hara look like a boy.

Now you may think that Miss O'Hara's well-known assets are impossible to disguise in masculine form. But the script of "Sons of the Musketeers" has a scene with the actress masquerading as a boy. So the wonder men of the studio went to work.

"Thank goodness," sighed Maureen, "the script doesn't try to stretch the credulity of the audience too long. My identity is discovered quickly."

She described the process of finding the proper costume:

"They tried a good many disguises that didn't work. At first, they put a cape around me. But that was no good. It still showed the curves, and after all, the wind might blow.

"Then they tried putting a wide strap across my chest, but that still didn't hide anything. They tried a few other tricks until they decided to pad me.

"They put cotton padding above and beneath the bust. That gives me a straight line. To cover the hips I wear a short jacket that flares slightly. That's necessary, too. A woman's figure is different from a man's; you certainly could tell a woman's hips."

Her legs are hidden by long boots and she wears a wig and cap over her flowing hair. That completes the disguise.

"The scene in which I'm discovered is very funny," she admitted. "I am posing as a son of one of the musketeers. The other sons meet at the old inn where our fathers used to gather. According to tradition, we are all supposed to sleep in one big bed.

"When I refuse to join them, they start rough-housing and call me a 'pretty-boy.' In the process, my shirt is ripped open. My wig and cap are knocked off at the same time, so the Johnston office will believe that that was the give-away."

SLIM, TRIM lines of Chrysler Windsor four-door sedan is examined by Miss Margaret Laing. Car features new safety devices in 1950 models along with greater vision.

NEW DODGE, in attractive beige, is inspected by Edmontonians Don Travis and Miss Elsie Coles. Dodge this year features new suburban model.

New Car Models Shown In City Well Received

Car-conscious Edmontonians are enjoying views and news of 1950 models these days.

Latest to be displayed are the Dodge, DeSota, Chrysler and Plymouth, products of the Chrysler Corporation.

Dodge and DeSota are on view at Burrows Motors, 106 street and Jasper avenue, and the Chrysler and Plymouth at Kenn's Garage, 109 street and 100 avenue.

Standard on new models are such safety features as well-lighted instrument panels, safety rim wheels and super cushion tires.

TWO IN ONE

The utilitarian "Suburban" model Dodge will be appreciated by rural home-owners.

A combination car-station wagon and truck are wrapped into one package in this automobile.

New windows on the Chrysler models allow for 27 per cent more glass area, giving greater visibility and safety.

Larger brakes require lighter brake-pedal pressure. New massive grills are featured on both Chrysler and Plymouth models.

Another striking improvement is the addition to the chassis of airplane type direct-action shock-absorbers which provide two way control of spring and car action necessary to smooth riding.

Shell Oil Plans Exploration In North

By C. V. Myers
Bulletin Oil Editor

Shell Oil Company has announced the location for the second most northerly well in the Province of Alberta, Shell Muskwa Stratigraphic test No. 1, in lsd 14, section 35, township 84, range 24, west of the 4th.

The well is on a large reservation, 115 miles north of Athabasca.

The rig and seismic crews are moving in simultaneously. The well is to test the section of sediments that occur in this area without too much thought of getting oil. The seismic crew is to investigate structural possibilities. When both sets of information are put together, they may form the foundation of an exploration program.

The Shell well is some 30 miles north and 20 miles east of the Barnsdahl group's Wabiskaw test.

TEST WELL IN B.C.

Royalite Oil Co. Ltd., plans to sink a test well in the British Columbia gulf islands this summer.

This was reported by S. F. Heard, president of the Calgary company which holds licences on 18,600 acres of crown-held land on 10 of the gulf islands between Vancouver Island and the mainland and a small part of Vancouver Island near Nanaimo.

Heard said the company would start geological and geophysical exploration work on its holdings of the gulf islands as soon as the weather cleared. These surveys would determine the site of the proposed well. It is expected the surveys will take several months.

Heard described the B.C. coast area as "encouraging" as a possible source of oil and natural gas.

Heard reported that the question of securing licences to prospect for oil and natural gas elsewhere in the B.C. coastal area was under discussion by the company officials. He gave no hint of the area which the company had in mind.

AT REDWATER

Imperial Oil has staked and started a new development well on its holdings in the central sector of the Redwater field.

The new venture, an offset, is Redwater No. 58, located in lsd. 3 of 29-57-21 w4th. The well was spudded in early Thursday morning and was 40 feet down at last report.

Eleven more Imperial wells in the field are at completion depth while three others are in earlier stages of drilling and one is rigging up.

AT LEDUC-WOODBEND

Imperial Leduc No. 244, bottomed at 5,324 feet, has been swabbed into production and crew is now waiting to establish a potential.

SECOND WELL IN

The second well for Excelsior, 18 miles north of Edmonton, came in today in the D-2 zone, flowing from the interval 3,878 feet to 3,898 feet. The well Rio Bravo Carruthers 5-3 flowed 243 barrels on restricted choke on an eight-hour test. The well is half a mile south of Imperial Excelsior Discovery.

Gravity of the oil is 36.6 degrees. There is no water. The well had gone to the D-3 but found it unproductive. It then plugged back to the D-2 interval and perforated with six shots per foot.

Wall Street Break Forecasts More Sales

By Elmer C. Walzer
Exclusive to the Bulletin

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(UP)—Wall Street believed stock market investors would make more sales today in the wake of yesterday's stock market break.

Experts observed that the huge volume of the last hour, totalling 1,350,00 shares, overshadowed the actual decline, which was judged small. This volume equalled the greatest for any hour in a decade.

Tickers, which at times ran 11 minutes behind, reflected the large number of issues being traded. The tape carried 1,233 issues, greatest number in the market's history.

MORE SALES SEEN

Some accounts were brought to levels where additional selling may be required. Also it was felt that with the wide publicity on front pages given yesterday's break, some additional sales may come from investors.

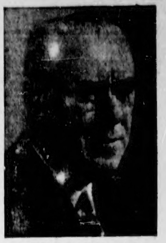
This publicity, according to Bache and Co., stock exchange house, "may bring renewed selling this morning, as attempts are made to gather in accumulated profits or to cut short trading losses."

Experts said the break was a long overdue correction of the long rise in values which began June 13.

The railroad average at the close yesterday still was 1.05 points above the 1949 close and the utility was down only 0.35 point and the general average down only 0.24 point.

So far this year the turnover on the stock market consisting of three sessions of more than 1,000,000 shares each and six of more than 2,000,000 shares each has amounted to 19,328,510 shares, most for the period since 1937.

The record for the first nine sessions of any year was set in 1929 at 41,567,040 shares.



APPOINTED president and general manager of the Tuckett Tobacco Company Limited is T. Harold McGuire, who was formerly vice-president and director.

Canada's Premiers Review Outlook For Provinces

By Robert W. Reford
Exclusive to the Bulletin

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—(BUP)—Canada's 10 provincial premiers said today their chief worries were unemployment and loss of British markets for their province's goods.

The premiers, here to attend the Dominion-provincial constitutional conference, told British United Press that for the most part, the nation generally could look forward to about the same degree of prosperity in 1950 as it enjoyed in 1949.

The two problems common to a number of the provinces, unemployment and foreign markets, were said by the premiers to be short-term, however. One of them said much of the future rested "in Almighty God."

They were asked to describe, in a general way, the economic prospects for their provinces in 1950. These were their replies:

Leslie Frost of Ontario: "I would say the outlook for this year is generally good. Our general economic level in 1949 reached record peacetime proportions and I can foresee no sliding off from that level this year. With respect to the unemployment picture, we in Ontario have been very fortunate so far compared with some sections of the country. We don't expect to run up against any acute problems in that respect. On the whole, it looks like a good year."

MACDONALD DOUBTFUL

Maurice Duplessis of Quebec: "The outlook for a prosperous year in Quebec is very good. Of course, I don't control everything—there is always Almighty God. But everything we can do to ensure prosperity, we shall do."

Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia: "There are spots of unemployment in the province, mainly caused by Britain's failure to buy our timber. Negotiations are going on now in an effort to arrange that Britain will be able to buy some of this timber. Our economists look for a good year in 1950. I am no economist, and while I accept their statement, I am not prepared to forecast what the year will bring."

John B. McNair of New Brunswick: "There is some unemployment in our province at present, but I'm looking for an improvement in the spring. The winter is likely to be a difficult period, but I am confident the situation will improve. The loss of the pitprop market in Britain has left us with quite a hole to plug, but we are doing all we can to plug it. The general outlook for 1950 is reasonably good."

B.C. LOOKS GOOD

Douglas Campbell of Manitoba: "Manitoba's prosperity depends on world trade and her production is geared for export. If we could not sell our surplus products we would be in a serious position. The world's economy is unsettled, and, while I certainly do not foresee a depression ahead, we must be realistic when we look at the future."

Byron Johnson of British Columbia: "The general picture seems to be very good. A great deal of construction is going on and probably will continue. Our currently acute unemployment problem is mostly seasonal and, I think, will right itself. If our lumber industry maintains its present pace I feel it will be a good year."

LOOK FOR OIL

Walter Jones of Prince Edward Island: "We can get along as well as any other section of the conutry. We in Prince Edward Island are mainly farmers and, while agricultural prices are lower, we will get along as well as in other years, comparitively speaking."

T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan: "I think the general picture is fairly good for 1950. Naturally, two things are causing us a great deal of concern—whether we'll get enough rain and where we're going to find market for our farm products to replace those lost in Britain. Nevertheless, 1949 was a good year despite a crop failure over one third of the province, and we look for a good year in 1950, all things being equal. The fact that we're on the verge of the greatest oil and mineral resources development in our history will greatly aid our economic prosperity."

SMALLWOOD HOPEFUL

E. C. Manning of Alberta: "The general picture is very good, with a progressive and steady development of our rich resources, notably in oil. Prospects are very encouraging for 1950. Our greatest concern at the present time is where to find markets for our farm products. That is a most disturbing problem."

Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland: "The prospect for Newfoundland is governed by two factors. In the first place, the present situation is not wholesome, chiefly because Britain is not buying our pitprops and because we are finding it difficult to sell in our traditional European markets. Secondly, however, there are excellent prospects for industrial development in the province. These should more than counterbalance any disadvantages we are suffering at present. In fact, if half our hopes are fulfilled, I anticipate that Newfoundland will need to increase her population considerably, through immigration."

Wifely Concern

LONDON.—(CP)—Mrs. Irene Nilsen accompanied her sailor husband on a 15,000-mile voyage in his ship, the oil-tanker Jan. She said she just went along "to make sure he had no holes in his socks."

Liberty Rests on Law To Guarantee Freedom

Liberty rests on law and law is the only sure guarantor of liberty, E. C. Leslie, KC, of Regina, told 200 members of the Law Society of Alberta at its annual banquet yesterday at the Macdonald.

Edmonton Bar Association was host to the society with William Morrow presiding.

The prominent Saskatchewan lawyer dwelt on the fundamentals of English law as it had been developed over the years. He stressed the importance of keeping ever in mind that its tradition and dignity must never be regarded thoughtlessly.

MANY COURT CHANGES

A sustained ovation was given Mr. Justice Frank Ford, senior justice of Alberta supreme court, when he rose to reply to a toast to the bar of Alberta.

"In my time I have seen the whole bench change, and it will be from among you that our places will be filled," the justice said.

The toast was proposed by B. W. Clapperton, KC, Calgary, counsel for Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Clapperton paid tribute to the good relations found among colleagues.

Guest speaker was introduced by H. S. Patterson, KC, Calgary.

Repeated encores were given about 50 members of the Ukrainian Orthodox Church of St. John choir. It gave masterly renditions of Ukrainian folk songs, marches and choral tid-bits, under direction of George Bilashevich, a newcomer to Edmonton.

Guests at the head table included Mr. Justice C. C. McLaurin; L. MacTaggart, KC, president of Saskatchewan Law Society; Chairman William Morrow; Mr. Justice S. J. Shepherd; Mr. Justice H. H. Parlee; L. Y. Cairns, KC; S. Bruce Smith, KC; and Dr. Kenneth Thompson, medico-legal expert and president of Edmonton Academy of Medicine.

B.C. Fruit Group Give Apples to U.K.

One Million Boxes Sent As Half Crop Unsold

KELOWNA, B.C., Jan. 13.—(CP)—British Columbia fruit growers have made a gift of approximately 1,000,000 boxes of apples to Great Britain, rather than have the fruit rot in warehouses here. Market value of the "gift apples" is about $1,500,000.

Announcement was made today in a statement by A. K. Loyd, president and general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd.

First shipment of apples, 30,000 boxes, will leave New Westminster, B.C., Jan. 15, with the remainder leaving on 11 other vessels beeween that date and Feb. 15.

Mr. Loyd's statement said B.C.'s crop this year totalled nearly 8,000,000 boxes, with half the crop already exported or sold in Canada.

COST QUITE SMALL

If normal sales are in evidence during the next three months, about 1,000,000 or 1,500,000 boxes will remain unsold.

The gift will cost growers little, Mr. Loyd said. The 25-cent-a-box shipping charge to New Westminster would be offset by additional storage and dumping charges.

"We are giving the apples to Britain and are paying the freight as far as shipboard."

OTHER SHIPMENTS

Britain has had free apples from Canada before, but this is the first time the growers have contributed through their selling agents. In previous years individuals could send free boxes, and last October the federal government arranged for shipments on a 50-50 share basis with the United Kingdom. The October order was valued at close to $3,000,000.

Despite a record crop in the United States, normal shipments of Canadian apples are moving across the border. Sales have also been made to the Philippines, Hong Kong and Singapore.

Freight Rate Meeting Called

A special meeting of Calgary-Edmonton Freight Commission will be held Monday in Calgary.

The meeting will decide whether representation should be made at the next sitting of the Freight Rate Commission on Crow's Nest Pass rates.

Representing Edmonton will be S. Bruce Smith, K.C., Don McKay and O. McIntyre.

By RONALD A. NICKERSON

OTTAWA, Jan. 13—(BUP)—The Dominion - provincial constitutional conference has adjourned with all participants expressing satisfaction.

In short closing speeches, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and the 10 permiers verbally patted each other on the back yesterday for their accomplishments.

Then, in line with the perfect harmony of the three-day meet, everybody joined in singing "O Canada" and God Save The King.

STANDING COMMITTEE

The final day saw the following achievements:

1. Unanimous acceptance of a report drafted by a committee of 11. It recommended that the provisions of the British North American Act be split into six categories, with each to have its own amending formula.

2. Decision to set up a standing committee of the attorneys-general, with Justice Minister Stuart Garson as chairman, to decide tentatively what constitutional matters should be placed in each division. The committee would be guided by proposals of the provincial and federal governments.

The committee will hold its first meeting in Ottawa, probably within the next two months, Justice Minister Garson said.

ALBERTA'S INTERESTS

In addition, Ontario and Quebec delegates felt they had won a real margin of protection for provincial direct-tax revenues.

Ontario Attorney-General Dana Porter said acceptance of the committee's report had accomplished that.

Porter said the direct taxation powers of the provinces, vitally important to Ontario, Quebec, Alberta and British Columbia particularly, had been fully covered by clause five of the report. It would place provincial power to levy direct taxes in the same category of sacred amendments requiring unanimous consent of all provinces as matters of education, language and minority rights, he added.

SIX CATEGORIES

The six categories into which clauses of the BNA Act should be split and the amending procedures suggested were:

1. Provisions concerning the Dominion only, to be amended by an act of parliament.

2. Provisions concerning provinces only, to be amended by an act of the provincial legislature interested.

3. Provisions concerning the Dominion and some, but not all, of the provinces, to be amended by an act of parliament and acts of the legislatures affected.

4. Provisions concerning the Dominion and all the provinces, to be amended by acts of parliament and "of such majority of the legislatures and upon such additional conditions as may be decided upon."

5. Provisions concerning fundamental rights—such as education, language, solemnization of marriage, administration of justice and provincial property in lands, mines and other natural resources — and the amending procedures themselves. These to require the approval of parliament and all the provincial legislatures.

6. Provisions which should be repealed. The committee's report did not specify these, but it had been suggested that some provisions of the original BNA act of 1867 were obsolete and should be scrapped.

The committee also suggested two other things for study. These were:

1. That both the Dominion and the provinces have power to initiate amendments in the last four categories;

2. That the subject of delegation of powers from the Dominion to provinces and vice versa be thoroughly considered.

PETRILLO-MEN BUCK VARSITY DANCE BAND

WINNIPEG, Jan. 13—(CP) — Business manager Leo Martin of the Winnipeg Musicians' Association, Local 190, said today the union is unable to give its permission for a University of Manitoba dance band to play to a University dance in Civic Auditorium Jan. 20.

Mr. Martin said the executive board of the union cannot deviate from past policy "with regard to non-member orchestras playing in the field of commercial music."

Sask. Intelligence Seen Higher

REGINA, Jan. 13.—(BUP)—Saskatchewan is showing intelligent interest in the British drive for Canadian trade. That's the word from the United Kingdom trade commissioner in Winnipeg, William Coventry. He says Saskatchewan is showing more intelligent interest in the trade problem than any other province.

Rail Union Check-Off 'Invasion of Rights'

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.—(BUP)—Compulsory check-off systems for collection of union dues was an invasion of the liberty of the individual, the nation's major railways stated last night.

In a joint statement to a conciliation board here, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways said the system would tend to give the union monopolistic and undemocratic powers.

The statement was made as part of the railway companies' reply to two railway unions' demands for a ten cents an hour wage increase, a 40-hour week and introduction of the check-off system.

The railways stated that the system of deducting union dues from all employes, whether they be members of the union or not, struck at the fundamentals of the rights of both the employes and employers.

Both railways pointed out that any increases could only be made if freight rates were first boosted.

Involved in the demand are the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes and other transport workers and the Brotherhood of Express Employes.

The unions' claim, presented by T. McGregor, chairman of the com[illegible] the railwaymen, [illegible] employes were being forced to [illegible].

The [illegible] also stated that continuance of the [illegible] 48 hour week was an injustice to [illegible].

STOCKHOLM, — (BUP) — King Gustav V missed the Swedish parliament's opening session yesterday for the first time since he ascended the throne in 1907. The 91-year-old king lies ill at Drottningholm Castle with fever caused by a sore throat and a chronic bronchitis.

CBC Appointments

HALIFAX, Jan. 13.—(CP)—A. R. Kemp of Forest, Ont., has been named supervisor of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's national farm broadcast service and A. K. Bergman's Lover Claims 'I Was Drugged When Wed'

TURIN, Italy, Jan. 13.—(BUP)—Italian film director Roberto Rossellini obtained a divorce from his Italian wife on grounds he was under the influence of drugs when he married her, it was revealed in the Turin appeals court today.

The disclosure was made when Rossellini's attorney Gino Sotis went into court here to obtain Italian recognition of the divorce in order to help clear the way for Rossellini's marriage to movie actress Ingrid Bergman.

It was also disclosed that the divorce was obtained in Wiener Neustadt, Russian-occupied Austria, by Rossellini's wife.

It was granted on the grounds that Rossellini was "incapable of will and understanding when the marriage was celebrated." This motive for annulment is recognized by Italian civil law, which is extremely strict on the registration of foreign divorces.

In Rome Rossellini's lawyer announced that Ingrid Bergman has made arrangements to get a Mexican divorce so she can marry Rossellini "as soon as possible."

The attorney said Miss Bergman and her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, Hollywood surgeon, had reached a divorce agreement which will give him custody of their daughter, Pia, 11. They also agreed on a property settlement, he added.

"There are no other hindrances to hold back the swift course of divorce," Gino Sotis, attorney for Rossellini, said.

Sotis said Rossellini, 43, and the stately Swedish actress would be married as soon as the Mexican divorce could be obtained.

THE MAROTTI-GEARY FIGHT

No doubt there are several other interesting aspects of the fight between Benny Geary and Al Marotti which now encroaches upon us—next Monday night, Stock Pavilion—but in Edmonton boxing circles the boys are discussing nothing at all but the knockout possibilities of this tango.

Specifically, they are speculating on the round in which Mr. Marotti of Twin Falls, Idaho will flatten Mr. Geary, the Wildwood agriculturist.

For they are sure, almost to a man, that the younger, swifter Marotti will demolish the little Negro in something less than the scheduled 10 rounds.

And they will tell you, if you ask, that the odds are 3-1 that Marotti will get around to the closing or abattoir, scene sometime during the fifth round.

JUICY INFORMATION

I have a suspicion that the boys are getting their information from Mr. Alex Kinsfather, youthful prime minister to and official mouthpiece of Mr. Marotti.

At least that's where I got mine.

"We will take this guy in five," said Mr. Kinsfather the other day, speaking in the first person plural as fight managers are wont to do when discussing their 'boys'.

So we—meaning the rest of us—more or less have his word for it.

After divluging this juicy bit of information, Kinsfather went on to give a character sketch of Marotti in several thousand words. His address on Marotti's past is edited here and presented for the edification of the local boxing brethren at no extra charge.

INTERMOUNTAIN CHAMP

Mr. Marotti has the punch, which has made him what he is today—lightweight chamipon of the Intermountain area, a region embedding some 12 states which nestle in the shade of the United States' western mountain range.

The heavy-haired, light-footed Italian lad does not fool around in the ring. His purpose is to hang one on his opponent's chops at the earliest possible moment. He leads up to this with a left jab, followed by a killing hook which he can throw with either hand.

Marotti, born 22 years ago in Youngstown, Ohio, is an outsize lightweight, scaling 138 pounds for recent fights. Al tipped the beam at 135 when he wrested the Intermountain title from one Ernie Huenick last September.

Kinsfather describes his charge as a 'comer' in the lightweight division and is currently negotiating for two scrapes which might determine how far Marotti might go.

38 PRO FIGHTS

One is with Rudy Cruz, top ranking contender for the crown worn by Ike Williams, and the other is with sixth-ranking Art (Golden Boy) Aragon.

If he gets by those aspirants to lightweight laurels, Marotti might well be [illegible] for a shot at the [illegible] and [illegible] Williams. If [illegible] he will have the satisfaction of having [illegible] in the lightweight [illegible] than any Intermountain boy has in the past decade.

Included among the parties of the second part whom Marotti has [illegible] over in 38 pro appearances are [illegible] Gomez, [illegible] Pete [illegible] and [illegible] Jardine, [illegible] Washington and Tony [illegible].

DREW WITH NOLAN

Irish Jimmy Nolan, western Canadian welterweight monarch, was awarded a draw with Marotti in Calgary last October [illegible] Kinsfather stoutly [illegible] Mr. Nolan got the benefit of a home town decision.

"Marotti won every round of the Nolan fight except two, which were even," said Kinsfather in a tone of voice which [illegible] cared to argue [illegible] a fever by arguing with someone else.

As for the impending joust with Geary, Kinsfather and Marotti are approaching it in a business-like manner. To quote Kinsfather once more:

"We [illegible] as quickly as possible."

And after [illegible] adversaries in workouts this week I am inclined to agree that 'they' will.

New [illegible] League [illegible] Hockey game at Stadium rink. Stars of the [illegible] scored [illegible] goalie Jack [illegible] were [illegible] McMillan.

PROMINENT at Gardens last night as EACs racked up their ninth straight win in as many league starts were, from left, centre Bill McNally, and wingman Del St. John and Jack Schofield. McNally and Schofield each figured in a pair of goals while St. John gave a hustling defensive display.

Welsh Unbeaten For Cars

NIPAWIN, Sask., Jan. 13.—(CP)—Jimmy Welsh of Winnipeg defeated Bill Childs of Regina 11-7 in the Group "B" game here last night and was the only unbeaten rink in Nipawin's round-robin series for the cars.

Welsh has four straight wins in Group "B" with only one round to go. Childs stands alone in second place with three wins and one loss.

The race in Group "A" was thrown wide open when Dave (Scotty) Moir of Nipawin edged Howard Wood of Winnipeg 13-12 to move into a two-way tie with Grant Watson of Winnipeg for the group lead. Both Moir and Watson have three wins and one loss.

In today's final round of Group "A" Watson plays Wood, and Moir plays Walter Palmer of Aylsham. Should Wood and Palmer win these matches, there is a possibility of a five-way tie in Group "A".

The Wood-Moir game featured the late draw, and after six ends the Winnipegger held a six-point lead. Moir got back in the game, scoring a four on the tenth to go ahead, and he stayed there, but the match went right down to the finish.

In other round-robin games Thursday night: Lyle Stewart, of Gladstone, Man., trounced Ole Olson of Hamonton, 10-4, and Ernie Wright of Aylesham, Sask., had an easy 8-2 win against George Mitchell of Arborfield, Sask.

Pete Hume, of Flin Flon, winner of the cars here last year, entered the No. 4 consolation event semi-finals along with Dan Davidson of Winnipeg; Von Hayes, of Whitewood, Sask., and Bill Cook, of Brandon.

Grant Watson of Winnipeg won the No. 2 event championship, defeating Walter Palmer, of Aylesham, Sask., 10-6 in the final.

Palmer opened a 4-0 lead, scoring singles on each of the first [illegible] after that Watson [illegible] a single and a three [illegible]

Palmer [illegible] the seventh end, but Watson came right back with six points [illegible] over the next three ends [illegible]

The Aylsham curlers scored a single on the 11th, and then ran [illegible]

The Watson rink [illegible] with Dave Moir of Nipawin [illegible] round robin series, was [illegible]

RODE DERBY WINNER, FREEZES TO DEATH

BELMONT, N.Y., Jan. 13.-(AP)—A man identified as Carroll (Cal) Shilling, noted jockey in the early part of the century, was found frozen to death yesterday under a horse moving van a short distance from Belmont race track.

Records showed that Shilling rode Worth to victory in the 1912 Kentucky Derby, won the Futurity in 1910 with Novelty and the Metropolitan handicap in in 1908 with Jack Atkin.

Shilling rode 3,838 times between 1904 and 1912, and won 969 first places.

A spokesman for the Jockey Club of New York said Shilling rode last in 1913.

Elect Dr. Dodds Commission Head

Dr. L. R. Dodds was elected president of Edmonton Boxing and wrestling Commission at the annual meeting held last night at a downtown cafe.

NAVY'S new football coach [illegible]

Dr. Dodds, who has been on the board for 12 years and held the 'big' position once before, was elected after former police chief A. G. Shute, bossman for the past two years, declined renomination, stating that the presidency should rotate among the members.

Other officials elected were: Fred Kemp, vice-president; Alex Wynnychuk, secretary (re-elected). Others in attendance were Dr. Allan, Aldermen Ed Clarke, Jr., and Ken Lawson and C. Crawford.

Only Commission member not at the meeting was 'Mickey' McGuire, absent due to pressure of business.

Alderman Lawson proposed adding one more member to the Commission, bringing the total to nine, instead of eight. He suggested that Dr. Allan, who has done a good job in the past as a member, should be re-appointed to the board. Dr. Allan's two year term finished recently and he was not re-appointed by the city council. A letter is being forwarded to council.

Consideration of the case of two young fighters, Stan James and 'Chub' Shanks, who recently appeared in court on an assault charge, was postponed until later, when they will appear before the Commission.

Secretary Wynnychuk stated that wrestling promoter Al Oeming had requested permission to hold a 'battle royal' on his next card. There were no objections among the Commission and Dr. Allan stated "the only thing ever banned by the Commission was the cobra [illegible] which came back under another name."

Last time Oeming sponsored a 'battle royal' several spectators were injured.

Dr. Dodds moved a vote of thanks to [illegible] past president Shute for the fine job he did as head of the Commission.

9th Straight for EAC As Canadians Lose 7-5

Winners Manage Stave Off Explosive Canuck Rally

By Ernie Fedoruk

Staving off a desperate third period rally by Canadians, during which they netted four goals, EAC's won their ninth straight Northern Alberta Junior Hockey league game at the Gardens last night.

Canadians, down 5-1 after two periods of play, exploded in the finale for four quick goals to be back in the game. Canadian uprising came after Gordon Stogryn had made it 6-1 for Morey Rimstad's leaders.

RUGGED ENCOUNTER

Nineteen penalties were handed out during the game, 12 in the dramatic finale, which included a ten-minute misconduct to defenceman Jeff Brown of Canadians and two majors. Don Perry, EAC defenceman, received one of the majors for slashing. His stick opened a cut over winger Babe McAvoy's eye. The other major went to EAC's Norm Gronskel for "fighting".

Speedy Leo Dupuis led EAC being carried off the ice after being knocked unconscious midway through the third period.

Dupuis skated in to try and tip a pass from a teammate into the Canadian net. Instead he landed in the net and his head struck the goal post, knocking him out.

Clubmen led 3-0 at the end of the first period, on goals by Jack Schofield, Dupuis and Duke Edmundson, and as far as most of the 350 fans were concerned, it looked like EAC's new puck-stopper, Bob Arniel, might get a shutout. His first period performance indicated as much.

HE WAS HOT TO START

The dark haired netminder had pulled off several fine stops in shutting out Canadians in the opening frame.

Clubmen went ahead 5-1, outscoring Canucks 2-1 in the sandwich session on goals by blond Bill McNally and Dupuis, his second of the night. Canadian centre Gene Achtymichuk broke Arniel's armor, tipping in Bob Dunsworth's pass during a scramble around the net.

Stogryn finished off a play with Jack MacDonald early in that hectic third period, to put his club five up.

Bill Hodgson ignited the Canuck uprising with a goal at 10:40. Then the Canadians came within striking distance of the Clubmen as Don Fraser batted in defenceman Mike Hirst's pass to make the score 6-3.

Then the burly Hirst put Canadians back in the game, much to the delight of the fans, with two quick goals, and EAC's five goal lead was cut down to one.

However, MacDonald broke from a Canadian attack to sail in on Sangster and put the game on ice for Clubmen with the final goal of the game.

Canadian coach Cooney LeFeuvre yanked Sangster with seconds left, to put on six forwards, but the EAC defence held and the klaxon went to end the game.

BLUELINE FACEOFFS . . .

First impression many fans got of Arniel was first expressed by ". . . doesn't he look like Laubman?" His actions in the net, his hair and features, make one think of Wally Laubman, last year's EAC goal-tender.

Laubman was one of the league's leading puckstoppers last year.

Reports from a city hospital were to the effect that Dupuis, would remain there overnight under observation. Dupuis came to in the dressing room and complained of soreness on the side of his head. The way the goal post rocked, one can well imagine why his head ached.

EAC (again) released goaler Keith Randolph to make room for Arniel.

GATES to further hockey fame and glory opened yesterday for Edmonton product Johnny McCormack. Announcement was made by Toronto Maple Leafs that they had signed the west-end boy to a NHL contract.

McCormack Signs Toronto Contract

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Free-wheeling Johnny McCormack yesterday signed a professional contract with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey league.

The 24-year-old centre from Edmonton inked the contract shortly after his return from New York, where he played his third game with the fifth-place Leafs Wednesday night as Toronto beat New York 2-1.

He came up from Toronto Marlboro seniors, in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Coach Hap Day, in announcing McCormack's acceptance of terms, said that Rudy Migay and John Arundel, brought from Pittsburgh Hornets, will return to the American league immediately.

McCormack will line up with Harry Watson and Bill Ezinicki. The only Leaf centre on the injured list now is Cal Gardner. He is expected to return in a few weeks.

TROPICAL FEATURE TO GALLALAD

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 13—A six-year-old gelding named Gallalad got his nose in front yesterday to win a three-horse photo in the Glencoe purse at Tropical Park.

Too Sunny set the pace until the stretch of the six-furlong sprint. Then jockey Sam Boulmetis brought up Gallalad on the inside, and the brown gelding beat Warship by a nose.

Too Sunny was third, another head behind. Favorite—Calumet Farm's Lake Success—finished seventh in a field of eight.

Schedule Fight Card Jan. 27

Edmonton Boys' Boxing Club will stage its second amateur boxing card of the season on January 27 at the Stock Pavilion.

Trainer Alf Tansey announced last night that he hopes to match Gordon Riddell, popular Edmonton welterweight, with a Calgary boy. Previously, Riddell had been slated to fight Johnny Taylor, provincial champion, from the South Side Legion club.

Another bout on the card will feature Edmonton's Jim Stanway and George Hart from Red Deer in a rematch. Last month Stanway won a split decision from Hart on EBBC's first card of the year.

Boys from Barrhead, as yet unnamed, will also participate on the nine-bout presentation.

South Side Juvenile hockey practice, originally scheduled from 8:00 to 10:00, has been changed to 6:30-8:00 tonight at the [illegible] estate rink at 91st street and 80th avenue.

Starlets Finally Count Win

Starlets, winless to this point in the Senior Ladies' Basketball league, finally have found a team they can beat.

Last night at McDougall gym Starlets stopped Victoria high school seniors 39-25 in an exhibition contest.

Nola McKenzie led the way, scoring 16 points for the Starlets, while Iris Haferman was next with seven. For the students, Stella Bizet was tops with 10.

In the second contest, Pats, pacemakers in the Senior Ladies' loop, were defeated by Coopers' Comets (a boys' team), getting beaten 30-21.

Same Old Tune For Quaker Kids

HUMBOLDT, Jan. 13—(CP)—Humboldt Indians last night humbled Saskatoon Quakers 5-1 in a Northern Saskatchewan Junior Hockey league game. It was Saskatoon's 11th loss in 12 league starts. They tied the other game for their only point of the season.

Humboldt's win broke a tie with Flin Flon Bombers and gave them sole possession of second place, two points behind the league-leading Prince Albert Mintos.

The Forward Pass or Blackstone?

Johnny McCormack was a young man with a problem when I came upon him of a warm July afternoon last summer. Perhaps he wasn't plagued so much by a problem —as most people look upon such things—as he was caught up in a quandary.

Because at 24 years of age the gangling west-end hockey product knew that for him the hour of decision had come:

Henceforth, seemingly, it had to be hockey or education, one or the other, right to the hilt. No more of being neither fish nor fowl as he tried to map a worthwhile future for one J. McCormack, B.A. No more jacking around, trying to decide between a hockey stick and a text book. No more of trying to mix one with the other . . . the classrooms of Toronto St. Michael's college in the daytime, a centre-ice role with Toronto Marlboros of the OHA at night.

"What do I do?" he asked of no one in particular. Sure he already has his B.A. But in the back of his mind was the thought that he should go in for law.

Lawyers do pretty good, especially from their 35th year on. And that's just about the time even the green hockey stars are all washed up.

Hollywood 'Wolves'—What Else?

Despite his comparative youth, the onetime EAC juvenile whiz had been beating around in the puck bushes for better than seven years, with one season off to take a whirl at the priesthood.

As a raw, green kid of 17 he had been signed by Toronto Leafs and promptly shipped off to Hollywood, where an aggregation, fittingly enough named the Wolves, howled two-three nights weekly at Pan Pacific Auditorium.

From then on Johnny McCormack had been on a kind of merry-go-round, as his Toronto boses brought him along through their various farm affiliations.

During a subsequent two-year hitch with St. Mike's he helped the power-laden collegians of those times win the Memorial cup.

Then it was Tulsa of the United States loop. With the Oilers McCormack showed such promise that Conny Smythe and other Leaf heads gave him the blue-seal stamp of approval as future Toronto timber.

A tenacious checker, McCormack also proved something of a switch-hitter. In front of the enemy's net he likewise was a crafty performer.

"We've got a fine prospect in this lad," Smythe told all who would listen.

And just about this time Johnny McCormack, who couldn't seem to make up his mind about hockey, returned home to Edmonton and quietly enrolled at a local seminary.

And Now—The Big Chance

This was three years ago now.

During the 1946-47 season the only time he bothered with a puck and hockey stick was to go out and fool around on the seminary rink, except for a one-night stand at the Arena that spring in the annual EAC all-star game.

Well, he found out he wasn't meant for the cloth, despite an honest effort on his part to have the cards turn up otherwise. The Toronto dons were glad to welcome him back — but not to the parent Maple Leafs.

Next two seasons were spent with Marlboros in the OHA. They were productive seasons, too, the western boy staying right with the scoring leaders.

And that's how things stood that July afternoon last summer.

"Sure it's been fun," the individualist who disdained to wear shoulder harness and elbow pads to the point where Smythe and associates were at their wits ends worrying about his chances of being seriously injured.

Then he added: "But where's it gettin' me?"

And apparently McCormack still didn't know the answer to his dilemma when it came time to report back for hockey last fall. He enrolled in law at Osgoode Hall and — you guessed it — continued to play for Marlboros.

Yesterday it was announced by Conny Smythe that he had signed Johnny McCormack to a Maple Leaf contract. At long last he was to get his chance as a full-time hockey player.

Now, maybe, the problem has been solved. The next few weeks should hold the answer.

Al Marotti, Geary Wind Up Training

Six bouts are scheduled on Monday night's boxing card at the Stock Pavilion, including the 10-round main attraction featuring Al Marotti from Twin Falls, Idaho, and Benny Geary of Wildwood.

Yesterday promoter [illegible] announced that a [illegible] prelim between Laurie Halberg of the city and Leo O'Caro from Calgary will replace the originally scheduled Gordon Gray-Bob Nunn affair. Influenza which previously knocked Jimmy Ego out of the semi-windup, also 'kayoed' Nunn.

The semifinal brings together Joe Kallis who holds a record of some sort for appearing on local cards oftener than any other living Edmontonian, and able seaman Dusty Rhodes .

Four-round bouts include the aforementioned Malberg-O'Caro joust, Stan James vs. Jack Haedon, Chub Shanks vs Fillion, and Art Veness against Johnny Wynnyk.

Geary and Marotti taper off their training tonight with workouts in the Gym-under-the-Gem. To date Marotti, who is a cousin of singer Perry Como, has appeared much [illegible] ponent [illegible] wood Negro he, too, will have some [illegible].

Senator Hill Ace Gets Jolt

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(UP)—A "frankly flabbergasted" Ray Scarborough, Washington's ace pitcher, today wondered "how can I be worth $100,000 a few weeks ago and less than $20,000 now?"

The Senators set Scarborough to wondering by offering him a 1950 contract calling for a $2,000 pay slash from the $17,000 he received last year.

"I just can't understand the club's mathemtaics," said Scarborough, who won 13 and lost 11 in 1949 for the last-place Nats and was regarded as one of the American league's outstanding pitchers.

When the Yankees were after me a few weeks ago," the 31-year-old right-hander reasoned, "Washington was asking as much as $100,000 for me. Now, only a few weeks later, the club asks me to take a cut. Man alive, things like that beat me. I was all set for a raise, too!"

Scarborough, in Philadelphia on business yesterday, said he never had any contract trouble before with Washington owner Clark Griffith.

While the Washington club was having its contract troubles, other clubs were reporting pen-and-ink progress.

The New York Giants increased their total of signed players to 10 with the receipt of 1950 contracts from pitcher Clint Hartung and infielder Jack (Lucky) Lohrke.

From Detroit, infielder Don Kolloway said he was "more than happy" with the 1950 pact he signed with Tigers.

At his Cleveland home, Joe Vosmik, former outfielder for the Indians who piloted Oklahoma City last season, was rehired to manage the Texas league club next season. Vosmik, who finished third in 1949, signed a one-year contract.

Quakers Take On Al Staley

SASKATOON, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Canada Hockey league have signed Al (Red) Staley, 22-year-old centre and right winger from Regina, recently released by Regina Caps, it was announced last night by manager Bill Hunter.

Staley will make his first appearance with Quakers tonight in Regina against the Caps. He will replace ace Saskatoon centre Tommy Burlington, who will miss the game because of a minor injury suffered Tuesday against Calgary.

It is hoped Burlington will be back in action with Quakers Saturday night when Caps return to Saskatoon for the second game of a scheduled home-and-home series.

Also slated to miss tonight's and Saturday's contests is defenceman Bill Johnson, who suffered a cut foot Tuesday. Utility defenceman Art Meyer will take his place in the line-up.

Eskimos Favor Three-Team Playoff

Edmonton Eskimo delegates to the annual western Interprovincial Football Union meeting in Regina this weekend will 'plug' for a three-team playoff.

In other years the two top teams qualified for the post-season activity but there is strong feeling in certain quarters that the three leading clubs should engage in the playoffs.

Other legislation likely to be supported by the Eskimo officials will be the reiteration of the Western Conference rule permitting the union president to appoint all game officials.

Last fall some centres, notably Calgary, opposed the appointment of several referees and umpires appointed by retiring-president Art Chipman.

BING CROSBY OPEN

Hogan's Rally In Second Stage

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 13—(UP)—Ben Hogan, the mite with the fight, took another stride in one of sport's most stirring comebacks when he teed off today in the $10,000 Bing Crosby pro-amateur golf tournament.

Sam Snead, long-driving star from West Virginia who tied little Benny for first place in the recent Los Angeles Open, was also in the field and the competition promised a renewal of their epic duel.

But Hogan was the show, for the nation was warmed by his dramatic return to action after the highway accident which almost cost him his life last winter.

The tournament is 54-holes on a different course each day. It starts on beautiful (and tough) Cypress Point. Tomorrow the competition is at the wooded Monterey Peninsula layout, and the finale on Sunday is on world-famed Pebble Beach.

Nearly two inches of rain water-logged the fairways on Tuesday and Wednesday, but a bright sun and a good breeze came along yesterday and the going isn't expected to be too heavy — especially on Cypress Point, a sandy course that absorbs the water easily.

Hogan won the singles championship here last year; and the pro-amateur title was captured by Bill Nary, towering southern California professional, with 10-handicap Lefty O'Doul (of baseball fame), as his partner. They'll be back to defend their crown, too.

Among the stars from the acting world competing are Crosby, a low-handicap ace himself; Dennis O'Keefe, Johnny Weismuller, Randolph Scott, Forest Tucker, Dick Arlen and director Frank Borzage.

Baseball offers, along with O'Doul, Leo Durocher, Jimmy Dykes, Ralph Kiner, Bob Lemon and Del Webb. From football come Marshall Duffield, one-time USC All-American: and Biff Hoffman, Stanford: while Jimmy McLarnin, former lightweight champion, represents boxing.

NEW YORK.—A Madison Square Garden basketball game between Brooklyn St. John's and San Francisco the other night was the first athletic contest involving the universities.

CUBS BUY NEWARK BEAR FRANCHISE

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.-(AP)—Chicago Cubs today acquired a second triple-A farm club, purchasing the Newark (N.J.) International league franchise and shifting it 120 miles northeast to Springfield, Mass.

Marking the first franchise switch in the top minor-league strata in a dozen years, the springfield entry will give the Cubs a triple-A running-mate to their Los Angeles club in the Pacific Coast league.

The Newark franchise was acquired from New York Yankees after the Bears suffered painfully in attendance decline. The Yankees still have a triple-A farm club in Kansas City of the American Association.

Clovechok Dropped For Stampeder Tilt

Flyers at Full Strength As Steve Latoski Returns

It may be Friday the 13th to the average joker but for Frank Currie today is — like Christmas and his birthday rolled into one.

Flyers were scheduled to head south at 12 noon today, to keep a Western Canada Hockey league date in Victoria Arena tonight against Calgary Stampeders.

What's more the good word, following last night's workout, was to the effect that for the first time in many weeks the Allan Cup champions of two seasons back would be at full strength.

In fact so well stocked is coach Currie with talent, as a result of happenings of the past few days, he has seen fit to drop 'Handy Andy' Clovechok from the line-up at least for the present.

WAVED MAGIC WAND

What has been a worrisome situation, brought on by a rash of injuries, cleared as if by magic last night.

First off the club doctor announced that pivotman Steve Latoski, sidelined for the longest time by a hand injury, was ready to start earning his pay cheques again. At the same time high scoring winger Alex Pringle who had been suffering from a sprained wrist, declared himself in on the clambake in Victoria Arena.

Possibly not to be outdone, pivot Elmer Kreller, hamstrung for several days by a groin mishap, told coach Currie that he also wanted a shot at Stamps.

And in that winger Colin Kilburn, shaken up in last Saturday's rugged clash against Saskatoon, had returned to duty a couple of nights previously it meant that for the first time in more than a month Flyers were without a 'cripple'.

In the midst of this sudden wind fall, Currie decided to sidetrack Clovechok, star of that winning Allan Cup surge in the spring of 1948.

As Flyers take the ice tonight, still seeking a win this season on Calgary ice, the Latoski-Kilburn-Doug Anderson line will be reunited; Kreller and his mates of the 'Skinhead Line', Pringle and Freddy Smitten also will be set, and a third attacking unit, consisting of Bernie Bathgate at centre, with Don Culley and 'Bing' Merluk on the flanks, will complete the attacking units.

Ray Frederick, locked in a sprightly duel for goalkeeping honors with Calgary's Russ Dertell, will be between the posts. Out in front it will be Harvey (Fog) Young-Doug Lane and Gordon Watt-Bill Pettinger for duty in the pill-boxes.

Tonight's game shouldn't lack for paprika. On the go-in Flyers, with three games in hand on the Cowboys, enjoy a one point edge at the top of the standings.

Teams play right back here tomorrow night.

Meteor Cage Squad Seeks 8th in Row

League leading Waterloo Meteors will be trying to boost their unbeaten record to eight tonight as they tangle with Varsity Bears in the second game of a Senior Men's Basketball league twin-bill at Varsity gym.

Meteors have acquired another player for their already powerful squad. Last week they turned up with the much discussed Reg Clarkson in their lineup, and now it's Don Whalen, formerly of Toronto Simpson Grads. Both will be in action tonight.

Opening tilt, starting at 7:30 will see the Y.M.C.A. and Sparling Davis fighting it out for third spot in the league. Each squad has only two points, having defeated each other once.

ANGLING from Northshore Yacht Club dock, Miami, Fla., is fishing queen Josephine Bonilla. She is to reign during Metropolitan Miami Fishing tournament

High School Cage Leagues Resume

Spotlight will turn on high school basketball tonight with four games scheduled, two junior and two senior.

Varsity juniors will play Scona and Varsity seniors meet Garneau at Garneau. Vic senior and junior teams meet Westglen on the latter's own floor. The junior tussles open at 7.30 and the seniors follow.

Basketball games in the city have been getting larger crowds every time out, and the high schools average 200 fans at all games. Most are students, and spurred on by attractive cheerleaders, they take a great deal of interest in their teams.

. . . and those cheerleaders. Like all women, they try to outdo each other in dress, yells and precision. Those of Victoria, Westglen and Varsity are among the best, and the boys 'love' them!!!

Victoria Composite seem to have one of the strongest teams and presently lead the pack. The Red and white changed colors this year; aggregation won the Alberta "B" championship two years ago with such stars as Johnny Polonuk, Art Kruger and Ed Lucht. Last year they were edged by the South by a single point in the final game.

In three years of league play, including this year, they have only lost two games. One this year to Fred Windwick and company from Varsity and a close 42-40 thriller to Westglen last year.

They are without the services of Polonuk and Lucht, still attending school, who have decided to play in senior company. Lucht, member of Waterloo Meteors, leads the scoring parade and Polonuk is Sparling-Dav[illegible] [illegible].

Doing very well, thank you.

CANADA BIDS FOR 1954 B.E. GAMES

MONTREAL, Jan. 13.-(CP)—Col. George Machum, president of the British Empire Games association of Canada, said last night that Canada has made its bid for the 1954 games but so far only Toronto and Hamilton have shown interest in staging the athletic spectacle.

Col. Machum said 1954 "will probably be considered our turn."

The application from the Canadian association is now en route to Auckland, New Zealand, scene next month of the 1950 games.

The federation awards the games to countries of the Empire, not to specific cities. If Canada gets the 1954 games, the Canadian association will deal with the venue.

Lord in Charge 2nd Games' Group

MONTREAL, Jan. 13-(CP)—Tom Lord, assistant general manager of Canada's British Empire games team, will leave by plane today for Vancouver from where he will take charge of Canada's second contingent to the big February athletic show in New Zealand.

The party of 33 athletes and three officials will assemble in Vancouver next week-end and leave by chartered plane next Tuesday for Auckland.

The first half of Canada's representation is already in New Zealand, having travelled by boat. Those in the second group were unable to be away from Canada so long.

Mohawks Ambush New Haven Gang

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 13—(CP)—Cincinnati Mohawks last night trimmed New Haven Ramblers 3-1 in an American Hockey league game.

Winger Gilles Dube netted the winning goal after counters by Al Hirschfeld and Jim Moore.

BLUE PETER PASSES SUDDENLY

AIKEN, S.C., Jan. 13.-(AP)—Blue Peter, a thoroughbred whose potentialities were never fully realized, died yesterday. Attendants said the famous horse died of an undiagnosed ailment.

The horse was almost unanimously declared the outstanding two-year-old of 1948 and last year was the winter-book favorite in the Kentucky Derby. But he became sick in April.

A grandson of Case Ace and Man o' War, Blue Peter won $189,185 in a spectacular year as a two-year-old.

Minor Loops Nix Repeal Bonus Rule

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP)—Baseball men in position to know said yesterday they have been informed that the minor leagues voted for the second time in a little more than a month against repeal of the bonus rule.

The minors, which turned thumbs down on repeal of the controversial law at their annual meeting in Baltimore last Dec. 8, participated in a mail vote upon the request of the majors.

The majors, with Commissioner A. B. Chandler casting the deciding vote, decided to junk the bonus rule at their annual meeting in New York, Dec. 14.

The bonus rule severely restricts movement of players paid more than a pre-determined scale for signing contracts. Any free agent paid more than $6,000 by a major league, class AAA or class AA team, more than $4,500 by a class A team or more than $3,000 by any other team is permanently tagged a "bonus player."

Such a bonus player cannot be farmed out unless nobody claims him for the waiver price which varies from $10,000 in the majors to $100 in class D. If he remains in the minors, he is subject to unrestricted draft.

Import Question Facing West Football Delegates

REGINA, Jan. 13.—(CP)—A proposal to boost from five to seven the number of American imports each team may carry is expected to be one of the liveliest issues before the annual meeting of the Western Inter-Provincial Rugby Union, which opens two-day sessions here tomorrow.

WIFU delegates are also expected to hear requests for:

1. A better financial deal for western clubs in the east-west final.

2. A ruling on the status of juniors. Winnipeg Blue Bombers would like recognition of the claim of a WIFU club on juniors playing in its district.

3. A demand that the CRU issue players registration certificates immediately after its annual meeting to prevent player-raiding.

4. A ruling of transfers. Players now are not permitted to transfer without the sanction of all WIFU clubs, and Calgary is pressing for a change which would make only the approval of the two clubs involved necessary.

5. An increase in the prices of tickets for the Grey Cup final. The prices now range from $2 to $3. Calgary has proposed they be raised to $2.50 and $5.

SCOT CURLERS LOSE TO CANADIAN RINKS

DUNFERMLINE, Scotland, Jan. 13 — (CP) — Canada's visiting curlers swung into high gear yesterday, defeating Scottish teams by a total of 68 shots in exhibition matches played at Dunfermline and Perth.

The Canadian 'B' team easily defeated the Dunfermline curling club by 37 shots, 136 to 99.

The 'A' team wound up a four-day series of matches in Perth with a 31-shot victory over Perth curlers. The score was 142 to 111.

Today the 'B' team moves into Perth for a three-day series, while the 'A' squad goes to Dundee for matches Friday and Saturday.

Biggest upset in yesterday's play came at Perth when a rink from the Perth Ladies' curling club defeated a Manitoba foursome, 9-7.

Some Cold Facts

Thoughts while sitting out this awful cold spell: I feel sorry for the weather man. I've never met the guy but I phone him nearly every morning to ask him about the weather. Yesterday morning the poor fellow was really worried. He had nothing but bad news for the citizens. He had nothing but more cold weather on his morning weather map.

He almost whispered the fact there was a "new system" building up 700 miles west of Prince Rupert but he dared not do more than whisper it.

He explained that this system might warm things up here in a day or two if it headed this way. But if he were to go out on a frozen limb and predict a chinook that didn't come, he'd have to leave town.

And you want to know something? The Edmonton weatherman gets just as cold as anybody else.

I think bears are real smart for hitting the hay in November and sleeping right through until March 11.

Happy Friday the 13th to you, Mr. Weatherman.

Fast Growing Child

Man who said he went to Rutherford school with me shortly after the Battle of Gettysburg called me up last night about something he thinks ought to be "looked into." He said his neighbor's 12 year-old daughter went to an Edmonton picture show that was advertised "For adults only." She was refused admittance when she tendered money for a children's ticket. A little later the same 12 year-old went back to the same theatre and got into the show after buying an adult's ticket. That kid sure grew up fast, didn't she?

Members of Edmonton Watch of the good ship Cutty Sark have weighed anchor and hoisted top gallant sails for voyage 1950. New skipper is Allan Young of 11328-102 street. Other officers elected are: First mate, F. E. J. Hancock; second mate, A. T. Powers; bo'sun, George Wells; and bo'sun's mate, F. Hiller.

The retiring skipper, Bob Ratcliffe, deserves three hearty British cheers for his fine job at the helm in 1949. All ashore that's going ashore.

Is our face red department. We made a great, big blunder in this corner yesterday. We said Edgar Williams, leader of Edmonton philharmonic orchestra, was bursar at University of Alberta some years ago. What we should have said was that Mr. Williams worked at The Bulletin before the First Great War when Archie West was business manager of this newspaper. It was Mr. West who later became bursar of the university.

Some Homely Advice

I hardly know how to go about apologizing to the anonymous letter writer who penned me a sizzling note about including "Homely women" among things Edmonton can do without that appeared in Tuesday's column. In neat feminine handwriting was this pointed advice: "Smarten up. Stop this childish cheap stuff. Edmonton can certainly do without it." Wonder who wrote that letter. One thing is certain. It couldn't have been Elegant Elsie.

Whatever became of Johnny Dorsey?

I wish Cecil Goldstick would wear a hat in this weather.

Edmonton chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous is holding its first public meeting next Sunday in the Kingsway Legion club hall at 8:15 p.m. I happen to know that AA has done a marvelous job here since it was organized about four years ago. This is certainly one organization that Edmonton cannot do without Happy dreams to all Edmontonians and especially to those good-looking stenographers who work in the Family Allowance branch office.

Edmonton Man Facing Manslaughter Hearing

Manslaughter trial of trucker Gus Arndt, 6520 104 street, opened this morning in supreme court before Mr. Justice C. J. Ford.

Charge arose from the death Oct. 9 of Edward Parker, 21, of 14419 101 avenue following a truck-car collision the previous night on the Calgary Trail just inside the city limits.

Arndt is alleged to have been driving the truck at the time of the fatal crash.

Driver of the car in which Parker was a passenger was Gordon Nieman, 20, of [illegible] 125 street.

Outlining his proposed evidence Crown Prosecutor W. J. Shortreed KC, told court that injuries sustained in the accident had left Mr. Nieman with amnesia or loss of memory and for that reason he would not be called as a witness.

SLOGAN SUGGESTIONS

Suggestions for Edmonton's slogan are flooding Mayor Sid Parsons' office. One is "Praise God from Whom O.: Blessings Flow." Another idea is to have aurora borealis lighting effects over city entrances with the slogan, "Edmonton, Light of the North." Everything from beaver caps to Daniel Boone variety has been suggested for typical headgear.

FIREMEN GLAD

Salesman Busy Product Useful

Who said salesmen aren't what they used to be?

One high pressure seller who was Johnny on the spot yesterday was Bob Polley of 11312-71 street who was passing a South Side service station while a fire was in progress.

Salesman Polley pulled out a demonstration kit from his car and rushed to the aid of firefighters battling the $25,000 blaze.

"He contributed a definite aid by guarding the nozzle of the underground gas tank with his kit," one fire official said.

Mr. Polley is a salesman for Ansul Chemical Extinguisher Company which handles high pressure fog extinguishers for oil or petroleum fires.

Inhalator Crew Saves 19 Persons

Report covering activities for the past nine years of the Edmonton Fire Department Inhalator Squad shows the crew was successful in saving 19 lives out of 42 calls.

The report, prepared by N. Arnold, city physical instructor in charge of first aid for the fire department, will be submitted to council.

A breakdown of the report, which covers the period from June 1940 to the end of 1949, shows that 43 cases were administered by the rescue squad, of whom 19 persons were saved and the other 24 were either dead on arrival or beyond aid.

Average of one call each year to save persons from drowning was answered, the report reveals. Of these two were saved and seven were dead on arrival.

Accidental causes were listed for more than 70 per cent of the calls.

Cyanide Guns For Coyotes

About 250 sodium cynaide guns will be put in use shortly by the department of lands and forests in an effort to combat the coyote menance, it was announced today.

The guns will be used in isolated areas where there is no danger of them killing domestic livestock.

The gun is equipped with a scented rag, which, when seized by the coyote, discharges the gun exploding a sodium cyanide bomb in the animal's throat, and killing it instantly.

Shanghai Fall 'Mostly Noise'

Bruce I. Rankin, acting commercial secretary for Canada in Shanghai when that city fell to Communist armies, arrived in Edmonton today en route to Ottawa to make a report on the situation in China. He left Shanghai in mid-November and was accompanied from Sydney, Australia, by his wife and child.

Mr. Rankin was held captive aboard the British freighter Wo Sang by Nationalist naval forces who fired on the vessel in the Yangtse river estuary a few miles from Shanghai.

Mr. Rankin described the fall of Shanghai as "more noise than anything else."

Cairns Chosen By Law Group

An Edmonton barrister, L. Y. Cairns KC, today was elected president of the Law Society of Alberta succeeding H. S. Patterson KC of Calgary, who retired as a bencher this year.

Vice-president and committees will be elected later this afternoon, secretary E. W. S. Kane, KC, said.

Charles Matheson Dies In Victoria

Former superintendent of west end swimming pool and city employe for over 25 years, Charles Matheson, 70, died Monday at his home in Victoria.

Surviving are his wife and one son, Donald, in Victoria.

Cremation took place there Wednesday.

Artists Are Busy In Old Country

People of all ages are taking a strong interest in art in England, painter and art teacher Mrs. F. M. Mortimer reported today.

Just returned from the United Kingdom where she visited famous art galleries, Mrs. Mortimer said that art students there were "expressing the beauty and life of the country in many ways."

THERE'S GOOD reason for the smile from Oakley Dyer, 18, Strathcona school grade 12 student and son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Dyer, 9854-89 avenue. Dyer, who wants to be minister, yesterday received word he had been chosen by United Nations Association in Canada to visit England, address 'teen-agers from 14 other countries. Dyer was chosen on basis of essay on "My Country and World Peace." Second western winner was Audrey Adams, 17, Vancouver. They fly to England in March, stay until May. Project costs delegates but $4.25 weekly spending money.

City Will Press For Road Board

Ottawa Delegates Picked To Promote Yellowhead

City council last night formally requested that the federal government appoint a fact-finding commission to investigate all trans-Canada highway routes before any route finally is chosen.

A delegation comprising Mayor Sid Parsons, one alderman and one representative of Trans-Canada Highway System Association (Yellowhead Route) will be sent to Ottawa to urge Reconstruction Minister R. H. Winters to name such a body.

"SOFTEN UP" WINTERS

E. T. Love, association secretary, said the city should take a firm stand and send a delegation to "soften up" Mr. Winters, whom he said had recently changed his mind about appointment of a fact-finding committee.

Mayor Sid Parsons said council owes more to Edmonton citizens than a contribution of money to the TCHSA, and should do everything possible to assure appointment of a fact-finding commission.

Decision on a route will be made within 30 days, said Mayor Parsons.

A conference of federal and provincial ministers will be held within that period. It is essential that whatever action the city takes be made quickly, he said.

Main difficulty presented by the recently-approved federal bill is that it provides 50 per cent federal aid for past highway construction. That means that Alberta will get little or nothing if the Yellowhead is chosen, whereas it has been reported the province would get $8 millions if the Kicking Horse route is chosen.

"If ever it was essential that every possible step be taken to bring the facts of the Yellowhead route before the people of Canada, so that we don't repeat the errors of our railroad construction, that time is now," S. Bruce Smith said.

Mayor Sid Parsons today cancelled his proposed trip to Winnipeg for the exhibition associations' meeting, so he can arrange the Ottawa meeting.

Chief Denies Allegations

Edmonton's fire chief, J. McGregor, today labelled a report from eastern Canada yesterday that fire chiefs' conventions "are just big drunks" as "a bald lie."

Vice-president of the Western region of the Fire Chiefs' Association, Chief McGregor said he "was ready to vouch for our region."

He was commenting on a remark made Wednesday night by a CCL delegate in London, Ont., who said the conventions "were just good drunks."

"We get a lot of solid work done at those annual conventions," the Edmonton chief said.

Edmund Stein Dies Aged 39

Well-known Edmonton and Wetaskiwin businessman, Edmund Stein, 39, of 8944-116 street, died in Edmonton after a long illness.

Mr. Stein first resided at Leduc after his arrival in Canada. He later moved to Wetaskiwin, founding Stein Structures. In 1947 he moved to Edmonton.

Surviving are his widow; two sons, Milton and Ronald; his mother, Mrs. G. Stein, one sister, Mrs. G. Hall; and two brothers, Gustivo of Edmonton, and William of Summerland, B.C.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Furniture Prices Slated for Upgrade

By Bea Thrifty

In a manner of speaking, the furniture bargains we're delighting in daily, are but the peaceful lull before the raging storm.

Because of increased costs, higher wage levels, shortage of materials . . . new-stock furniture will sell at a slightly higher level.

This shattering statement comes as a result of a survey of the situation with manufacturers in eastern Canada and locally Seems the boys have their problems from the producer end just as much as we consumers do.

• • •

Keen competition, more finickly buyers and a tightening up of purse-strings will do a lot toward levelling prices. But when imported fabrics are selling at higher rates, the picture is bound to change somewhat.

• • •

Belgian frieze, the nubbly fabric so popular now is easier to get than its American counterpart . . . but not much.

Furniture dealers here say everyone is demanding a hard-wearing beautifuly frieze chesterfield suite . . . but no can get enough to go 'round And there's a story behind all this.

• • •

During summer months, American yarn factories slacked off to match the slump in United States business. At this time they were able to supply Canadian manufacturers with pleasant alacrity . . . but . . . a villain enters the picture. He's in the guise of a quick about-face in American business prospects and immediately the US firms are demanding all the available yarns.

So there you 'ave it m' hearties!

• • •

Over and above this problem there is an approximated increase of 10 per cent in wholesale price of fabrics, steel and even wood.

Wages are following suit with strikes and threats of strikes adding a grim note to the scene.

• • •

Well, now that we've hashed that around a bit let's have the dealer's word about the splendid bargains available now. They are bargains . . . and this is why.

Clearance sales are just that.

Shops must dispence with their surplus goods every so often to make way for new goods, seasonal changes. Furniture offers at the moment are reliable . . in spite of the previous harangue about impending higher prices.

• • •

Reductions ranging from $1 to $80 are evident in a careful perusal of furniture sales.

Beautiful dining room suites are slashed unmercifully in price to get them off the stores' hands. Demand for heavy dining room furniture is not so insistent with more and more space-conserver bungalows featuring dinettes only.

One carved oak suite of large table buffet, china cabinet and six chairs now sells at $[illegible] price as compared to a previous rating of $4[illegible]. Another of clean mahogany lines goes at a similar reduction amounting to $80. Sale price of $249 for the nine-piece suite.

• • •

Chromium furniture is rapidly seeing a change of face with prices to match. Old, but perfectly serviceable and attractive items are therefore selling at chopped prices.

One a burn resistent job of a pretty green top boasts an underskirt of chromium and sells for about $36.

MEN TODAY are much more conscious of the health value of certain foods and outdoor exercise, such as Allan Ladd who enjoys working on his ranch.

WHY GROW OLD

Too Much Rich Food Eaten by Middle-Aged

By Josephine Lowman

Most middle-aged men are too fat. They eat too much rich food and do not exercise enough. Men love food like ham and eggs and hot cakes, steak and gravy and potatoes and apple pie a la mode.

These are fine foods but if you eat too much of them, or if they take the place of whole wheat and fresh vegetables and fruits and milk, you are ruining your chances for most vibrant health.

Men today are much more conscious of the health value of certain foods than they used to be.

We used to have to virtually choke a green salad down a man but many of them have now learned the value of such foods and have even learned to like them.

If you look statistics in the face you will have to admit that overweight is dangerous if you hope to live a long life or to avoid the usual deterioration which occurs from middle-age on. You do not have a right to expect to live as long as you would have if you are carrying about many extra pounds.

Women are more conscious of weight because of the way it affects their figure while men are not so penalized in the field of attractiveness by bulges. Therefore men have gone along without realizing how pleasant it would be, as well as how beneficial, to keep or to recover the sleek torso of yester year.

Why not give yourself a break? Why not tap the things we know now about nutrition and longevity? It is as important to you as it is to your wife. You can have your fling with the foods you love once in a while but cut down on amounts and build your diet about the more vital foods.

As the pounds drop off you will find yourself with more energy.

A man cannot cut his calorie count so low as a woman because of his larger build. If you would like to count your calories to see how many you are consuming each day and to control your food intake, send a stamped, elf-addressed envelope with your request for my calorie chart, leaflet No. 36. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Diet Has Influence On Child's Sleep

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

There are few problems more harassing than to try to make a reluotant child accept sleep. It has been taken for granted that if everything is right with the child, sleep should come at periodic intervals. When it does not it is a real puzzle to determine what is amiss.

A Reader writes, "No one has a problem like mine. I have two boys, two years and eight months of age. We live in a small house with one small bedroom, just large enought for our beds and the children's two cribs. My trouble is getting them to sleep.

"They both wake up at 7:30 a.m., so I try to get them in bed by seven or eight o'clock at night. The little baby doesn't go to sleep sometimes for hours. I can't leave the other one up that long but the minute I do put him to bed he sings or fusses and then the baby cries.

"As soon as he is quite then the other one tunes up and this goes on for hours. By the time they are asleep they are exhausted and so am I.

"I have tried putting the younger one to sleep first but he isn't ready for sleep. Some of the leaflets and books say, 'Put the baby to bed at such and such an hour' but how can you make them go to sleep or even to be quiet?"

You would have helped me enormously to see the whole picture had you told me how you feed your babies. Nutrition and sleep are tied very closely together in infancy and childhood. It is the fat, satisfied child who is the good sleeper, as a rule, and the thin, high-strung, under-nourished child who is the light sleeper.

Ask yourself whether both children get adequate doses of vitamin D, the vitamin which is necessary for good bone and tooth development and which nourishes the nervous system, too.

Do they get at least one pint of milk, whole grain cereals, fresh fruit juices, or a vitamin C tablet; meat, eggs, vegetables, cooked fruit, each and every day? If they do not, then you may be sure that lack of some of these is the answer to your vexing sleep problem.

Our leaflet No. 26 "Feeding from One to Two Years," and leaflet No. 22 "Formulas and Early Feeding," may be had for the usual self-addressed and stamped envelope. Address Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Tobe on Fashion —

Full Skirts Still Reigning Favorites For Spring and Summer

Although the slim silhouette is the smart new fashion, full skirts are still the reigning favorites for Spring and Summer. We American women love them because they suit our busy active life so well.

The fullness is modified this Spring, of course, but the smartest skirts are pleated all around and those are very full although they hang slim in repose.

I think a smart woman should have both silhouettes in her wardrobe this Spring. I'd have my skirts, my costume ensembles and most of my two-piece dresses with the new slim skirts. But I'd choose my dresses with pretty, easy-to-wear, full skirts—in prints, in soft crepes, in thin, crisp sheers, and above all in cottons for Summer.

Dorothy Marie Rostrop Weds Dr. D. McDonald

CARSTAIRS, Jan. 12.—Of interest in University circles is the recent ceremony in the United Church here, when Dorothy Marie Rostrup became the bride of Dr. Donald Malcolm McDonald.

Rev. J. W. Bainbridge performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with white chrysanthemums and cedar boughs.

The bride is the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. O. Rostrup of Carstairs, and the bridegroom is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. McGarry of Vancouver. Dr. O Rostrup of Edmonton gave his sister in marriage.

White Chantilly lace over satin fashioned the bride's simple floor length gown, which was made with Peter Pan collar and small self-covered buttons to the waist. Dutch cap of white velvet caught her finger tip veil of illusion tulle, and her bouquet was an all-white arrangement of roses and chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's gift of a pendant and earring set was her only jewelry.

TRIO OF ATTENDANTS

Attending her sister as matron of honor, Mrs. C. D. [illegible] was frocked in a formal gown of turquoise lace over taffeta, fashioned similarly to the bride's. [illegible] chrysanthemums were in her bouquet.

Bridesmaids were the bride's nieces Betty Ann and [illegible] Rostrup. Their [illegible] were of blue and yellow crepe made with short puffed sleeves, inset [illegible] yoke and velvet sashes in contrasting hues. Both carried [illegible] bouquets of yellow and white mums.

Brian Gore was best man and the guests were ushered by Dr. Jack Staples and [illegible].

Wedding music was played by Miss Patricia McDonald and Miss Donna [illegible] sang [illegible] during the signing of the register.

Reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's [illegible]. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. [illegible] and Mrs. O. Rostrup assisted in receiving.

Paris Hat Fashions Different This Year

LONDON—(CP)—Variations of the latest Paris hat fashions, with their ear flaps and winding scarf attachments have brought to Britain the closest-fitting headgear since the wartime "scarf-round-the-head" era.

The scarf-round-the-head idea has never quite died out. But most girls in London today are finding something snappier with the same warm usefulness.

From the thrifty ideas of London's working thousands has blossomed a style that was not heralded in the salons of The Big Ten—London's fashionable dress designers.

The watery winter sunshine has seen a sudden sprouting of thick, knitted woollen hoods—the looser and sloppier the better.

Made of thick bright wools, they have a variety of stitch and color designs and range from the closely-fitting head-cap or pointed snood of a baby's pram set, to the wide looseness of a monk's cowl. Some tie under the chin. Others have attached scarves and most have matching gloves.

For those unfamiliar with knitting, there are many jersey-wool designs in hat, bonnet or snood—at very reasonable prices.

The most versatile popular pattern of all is the long stocking. It can be wound and draped in dozens of different ways with leather flowers and brooches making a cheery color splash.

In gaily striped wools, the stocking can fill all the needs of any teen-ager. In black silk jersey it can be twisted in elegant style to make a ravishing cocktail hat.

For those who like elegance there is the cap, collar and scarf in one. Made of the softest felt, it fits the head like a scull cap, its scarf attachment slotted through the front of the big stiffened collar.

BRIDGE

It's Smart To Put A Loser On A Loser

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

Recently I received an interesting letter from Albert J. Goetz in which he said he finds bridge very relaxing after the strenuous activities involved in his work as vice president in charge of advertising for Pepsi-Cola. He plays two or three times a week and today's hand came up in a session in which he was having a run of extremely bad cards.

When Mr. Goetz picked up today's hand he jumped right in with a four heart bid. I might have preferred to open the bidding with one heart, but I never have been a critic of success. His partner's four no trump bid was Blackwood. Mr. Goetz showed his one ace with a bid of five diamonds. They got to a slam and made it.

Mr. Goetz had a nice little [illegible] in his letter in which he [illegible] I should [illegible] the slam as he [illegible] I had [illegible] in one of my [illegible].

Kinette Club Adopts New Service Project

Ex-Servicemen's Children's Home To Be Aided by Local Club Women

Mrs. A. R. Ingham was named convener of a new project of the Edmonton Kinette Club, to provide whatever aid is required for the Edmonton Home for Ex-Servicemen's Children.

Between-Meal Snacks Packed With Calories

Beware of those between-meal snacks. The most innocent-looking tid-bit can pack a powerful calorie count.

If you've been used to eating between meals, take a glass of water or a cup of tea or boullion. Either one will relieve that empty feeling and help you resist temptation while you are getting used to three meals a day with no extras.

Should the temptation to eat between meals seem irresistible—or you have trouble going to sleep without that comforting cup of hot tea or glass of milk—set aside an allowance from your regular meals for this need.

Mangone Suits Will Reach New Elegance When Spring Comes

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP)—North America's favorite fashion, the tailored suit, achieves new elegance for spring, 1950, in the expert hands of Philip Mangone.

This acknowledged master tailor shows a series of slim, understated ensembles which acquire individuality by such subtle touches as a flaring lapel, an intricate wrapped sleeve, a spot of sharp color contrast in lining or collar.

Unusual fabrics such as a multistriped grey tweed used in a belted Norfolk jacket, add interest to the collection.

IODE Dinner Held Recently

Mrs. A. I. Mathew entertained members of the Fort Augustus chapter, IODE, at dinner recently, preceding the regular monthly meeting.

Nomination for the new executive took place and election of officers will be made at the next meeting.

Donations were made to the March of Dimes, Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, and ex-service work.

Miss Bertha Lawrence reported that two Christmas parcels had been sent to England, and read letters of appreciation from the recipients.

Miss Mary Johnston reported that two Christmas parcels and clothing had been sent to needy families in the north, and that toys had been given to several small children being cared for in a foster home.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Bored Girl Complains Of Too Many Yes-Men

DEAR MISS DIX: I am attractive and very independent. My problem is being bored. I have being going out with boys for three or four years and have never found one yet who desn't yes-yes me all the time, or one who ever tells me that I am wrong about anything.

Everything I do and say is always right. Haven't young men any initiative any more? I have had many proposals, but I just can't see myself enjoying life with a husband who hasn't the nerve to tell me what he thinks of me or my ideas.

Where can I find a man who will call me down when I am wrong?

BORED.

ANSWER: In marriage, my dear. You will find as soon as you are married that your husband will not only have the nerve to tell you of your shortcomings but that it will become his favorite indoor sport and one of which he will never weary.

HUSBANDS ARE DIFFERENT

Also, you will discover that he will cease yes-yesing you and begin no-noing you with a suddenness that will jar your wisdom teeth loose. No woman can have the faintest idea of what a poor, weak, miserable creature she is and how far she falls short of being what she should be until after she gets married and hears her husband's unbiased opinion of her.

After listening to him diagram her many defects and point out to her the flaws in her character and disposition and housekeeping, she is left wondering what on earth ever made him pick her out for a wife when he so highly disapproved of her.

If you will observe closely, you will perceive that no wife has the complacent and self-satisfied look of a young girl, nor the cocky air of an old maid, nor the opinionated manner of a widow.

As a general thing, I should say that a married woman wears a hat about three sizes smaller than an unmarried one, and the reason for this is that wives have been deflated and had all of the vanity taken out of them by their husbands, who have not hesitated to tell them their honest opinion of them as to looks, intelligence and general efficiency.

CHICKEN CREAM SAUCE

1 can cream of chicken soup
½ cup milk

Stir soup well; add milk a little at a time, stirring constantly; heat. Makes about 1¾ cups. This is a sauce for crabmeat, lobster, salmon, broccoli, sweetbreads—many a creamed dish.

Technique Used For Glove Washing

According to leather experts, virtually all American-made unlined leather gloves are washable, because the tanning agents used in this country are not soluble in water.

But there's a definite technique to washing leather gloves.

1. Make rich suds from a fine soap or synthetic detergent with lukewarm water (never hot).

2. Wash all leather gloves except doeskin on the hands. To remove, roll off gloves from the wrist. Never pull by the fingers.

3. Rinse gloves in lukewarm water, and press out moisture in a clean bath towel.

4. In drying, remember that heat and sunlight are arch enemies of damp leather. Slow drying helps keep leather soft and pliable. For this reason you should shape gloves gently and place them on a thick towel to dry at room temperature.

5. Just before the gloves are completely dry, manipulate the leather with your fingers to soften it, and blow into gloves to restore the shape.

Collecting Stamps Good Winter Hobby

Every boy and girl shold have a hobby of some kind. You'll find out that most grownups have a favorite activity they like doing better than anything else. They say it helps them when they are tired and bored.

With boys and girls, an indoor hobby is always a good thing to have. If it [illegible] go outside, you should have something to pass the time.

My favorite hobby is collecting stamps. It stared when I was about eight or nine years old. I [illegible] myself a nice new writing book, and bought a package of hinges at the store. At first I took stamps off letters that came to the house, but it soon developed into a real hobby, and I [illegible] stamps from [illegible] Mongolia, Allenstein [illegible] India.

If any of you Tawasis are interested in starting a stamp collection, there are just a few things you should buy. If you don't want a regular stamp album, an ordinary scribbler will do. [illegible] buy stamp hinges. These are [illegible] bits of thin paper with [illegible] side. To put a stamp [illegible] you fold the hinge [illegible] one half to the [illegible] to the book.

Different stamps [illegible] interesting [illegible] years ago Canada [illegible] picture of Alexander Graham Bell. He was the man who invented the telephone. Then there was one with a picture of Princess Elizabeth [illegible]. That was to honor her when she married Prince Philip.

The first stamp used in Canada was in 1851. It had a [illegible] three pence [illegible] Nowadays [illegible] as much as [illegible]

During the war [illegible] our country helping in the battle. There were pictures of tanks, munitions factories, ship building, and a [illegible]

[illegible] made mistakes. If [illegible] are worth much more than the ordinary stamps. Some of these stamps, called "errors" are worth [illegible]

[illegible] a few shots.

If you do decide that you want to start collecting stamps, your mom or dad should [illegible] help you get started. You can always trade with friends in the neighborhood and some stores in the city do [illegible] stamps from different countries.

Sincerely,

Joan Walker

Bunty, who was on the front of the sled, coasting down the hill with Dottie Dot, Jollie Bean and Peckie the Santa Claus mouse, turned around and called:

"Did you hear that voice, Dottie Dot?"

"I heard someone shout [illegible]

Then another voice replied:

"I'm not afraid, Mother. I want to see who is on the sled."

"Dottie Dot, do you know any boy named Tippy Toppy?"

"No, Bunty, I don't. But [illegible] him now, at the foot of the hill."

"He looks like a little deer fawn, Dottie Dot."

[illegible]

"No, I'm too little for that, yet," answered the fawn. "But my mother was once a Santa Claus reindeer!"

"Where is your mother now?" asked Bunty.

"My father calls my mother [illegible] Tippy Toppy.

Pay-Off to Russians Claimed Half of China

By Edward V. Roberts

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—(BUP)—The state department hoped today that it has put Russia on the spot in Asia with its charges that Moscow is trying to steal 2,000,000 square miles of Chinese territory.

The Soviet is taking over four areas of North China—Manchuria, Outer Mongolia, Inner Mongolia and Sinkiang. These regions constitute almost half of China's 4,314,097 square miles.

Incorporation of these areas into the Soviet Union would rob China of rich industrial and agricultural lands.

It would make its economic rehabilitation totally dependent upon Russia.

Secretary of State Dean Atcheson made it clear that the United States considers the four areas to be integral parts of China.

His words could put the Chinese Communists in a politically embarrassing position. Mao Tse-Tung, their leader, now is in Moscow for negotiations in which he is expected to agree to increased Russian concessions in northern China.

If he does, he will be in the position of ceding to Russia huge areas which the United States insists are part of China.

Diplomatic observers said this would make it increasingly difficult for Mao to convince the Chinese people that the United States is the "imperialistic" nation that Moscow says it is.

Science Course Under Review

Improvement of the current high school course to adapt it to the needs of young peeople in a modern scientific world were discussed by 20 Edmonton teachers and education authorities.

The conference at McKay Ave. school featured discussions among city teachers and Dr. A. L. Doucette, faculty of education, Calgary, A. B. Evenson, associate director of curriculum for the department of education, and William Wagner, director of secondary education and guidance, Edmonton.

Revision of the science course is planned to provide further emphasis on the student's personal development, growth in family living and towards competence in citizenship and occupational preparation.

Koch Is Cleared Of Engine Theft From J. Boyko

Albert Koch, 10609-93 street, was acquitted in supreme court yesterday of a charge of theft of a steam engine from John Boyko, a sawmill operator.

Koch was alleged to have retained a man to haul the engine into Edmonton from its location west of Drayton Valley and south of Granada Dec. 30, 1948 after a "deal" with Boyko. Boyko denied any deal having been made.

Mr. Justice C. J. Ford told Koch he did not hold him entirely blameless but that acquittal was due to considerable doubt in testimony given.

East and West Premiers Hold The Spotlight

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—(CP)—There is no telling who will pop up as the key figures of a Dominion-Provincial conference.

Perhaps the historians will have to figure out who were the dominant personalities of the constitutional conference that adjourned yesterday, but in the meantime a man from the east and one from the west can qualify as the two who actually initiated the actions taken by the conference.

And the two — Premiers Angus Macdonald of Nova Scotia and Byron (Boss) Johnson of British Columbia—are of types about as dissimilar as you will find on a long stroll through the Canadian political scene.

TAKE ACTION

Premier Johnson was the man who, after the conference had meandered almost two days through a constitutional maze, suggested shipping the whole business to a committee for specific proposals.

After that committee had come up with a clear-cut chart for procedure on amending the constitution, Premier Macdonald started the move to send the problems to a continuing committee. This was done.

The resemblance between the two premiers ends at the point where they came together as the initiators of the only two specific actions taken by the conference.

Premier Johnson, no constitutional expert but an industrialist converted to politics comparatively recently, was the most silent man at the gathering. A premier for barely two years, he listened for most of the sessions while other government heads—most of them lawyers—argued out the fine points of constitutional law.

But when he got up after a couple of days of silence and threw in his committee suggestion in an apparent offhand way, it was adopted immediately.

Premier Macdonald, on the other hand, had taken a front-line part in the conference right up to the time he laid down a carefully-drafted resolution for sending the problems to a committee of legal experts.

MONGRELS AND PURE BREDS

Liquor Ads Go to Dogs But Only in Some States

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 —(BUP)—The wets and the drys squared off today in the historic caucus room of the marble-halled senate office building.

The question: shall we pass the Langer bill which would prohibit "the transportation in interstate commerce of advertising of alcoholic beverages?" The same sort of thing came up in congress a year or so ago.

The drys contend that such ads, which often show a man looking bright-eyed and bushy-tailed of a morn after a night of sippingOld Aunt Hetty gin, lead to excessive drinking. The youth of the land, the drys cry, is encouraged to bow to the demon rum.

R. E. Joyce, the president of Distilled Spirits Institute, Inc., has different ideas, Joyce says that preparation of liquor ads is a difficult task. You not only have to follow the letter of the federal law, but you also have to watch out for quirks in the state statutes.

Thirty-three states, he said, have special advertising requirements.

"The state of Verginia, for instance," he said, "forbids an advertiser from displaying anything except a picture of a bottle or of the label of a bottle."

Joyce warmed up to his subject after that.

"Take Oregon," he said. "We are allowed to use the pictures of big dogs there, but are not allowed to use pictures of little dogs. There is no apparent reason for this is far as we know.

"In Utah, we are prohibited from using the picture of any dogs at all—big or little. In the state of Washington we can use a picture of any dog we want to—mongrel or blooded, big or small."

Death Clause Heralds More Soviet Trials

By Robert E. Jackson

LONDON, Jan. 13.—(BUP)—Radio Moscow said today that the Soviet had re-installed the death penalty for treason. The report led western observers to comment that Russian leaders may be preparing for a Moscow purge and trial of Titoists on anti-state charges.

A decree of the presidium of the supreme Soviet announced that abolishment of the death penalty, decreed on May 26, 1947, would no longer apply to "traitors to the homeland, spies and saboteurs."

The Russian announcement said merely that the move had been made "in view of receipt of statements from national republics, trade unions and peasant organizations as well as from cultural leaders."

STAGE SET FOR TRIALS

But the observers pointed out that the Russians, who abolished capital punishment amid much fanfare on grounds that it was not needed in post-war days, probably would not re-install it now except to set the stage for some major event to follow.

Both Hungary and Bulgaria already have arrested and tried alleged Titoists, and similar trials can be expected in other Communist countries, they said.

In this connection, they said the Russians may be preparing for a big propaganda trial to climax in death penalties for alleged Titoists, or that defections inside Russia may be getting serious. At the very least, it is a frank Kremlin admission of concern over the growth of Titoism, they said.

When capital punishment was lifted 25 years sentences in labor camps were substituted for all crimes previously carrying the death penalty.

Parents Fail All Children, Director Says

TORONTO, Jan. 13. — (CP) — What's wrong with those often-precocious little darlings of today —children?

"Parents!" says Muriel Uprichard, Regina-born expert in child study and newly-appointed national director of the Canadian Junior Red Cross.

"Our adult society appears to have forgotten that its chief obligation in life is training the young, making a home suitable to the needs of youth, shaping the community resources to meet those needs of youth, and safeguarding and improving the educational system to which its children are to be entrusted."

Rural Mail Schedules Announced

Official schedules of postal delivery to rural points affected by CNR's curtailment of services were announced today by T. J. Riley, district postal inspector.

Four main routes in the district are affected and the post office has taken every possible alternative routing to insure best possible mail service.

Major re-routing was on the Edmonton-Saskatoon line.

All first-class mail missing trains bound for points between Edmonton and Saskatoon, via Wainwright and Tofield, is flown to Saskatoon. There it will make connections with the next train on the return run, thereby eliminating one day's delay in delivery.

Another service on the same line is utilization of the transcontinental for delivery of mail to Wainwright.

Buses on Sunburst and Greyhound lines will carry only the first-class mail when their schedules do not conflict with train deliveries. Only points on the regular bus lines will benefit from the service.

OTHER LINES

Train service from Edmonton to Bonnyville, St. Paul and Heinsburg is reduced from six days a week each way to three days a week. Trains serving the whole area leave Edmonton Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and return Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

To supplement the curtailed service, buses will leave Edmonton Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, returning Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Service from Edmonton to Calgary, via Mirror, which was formerly three days a week each way, is reduced to two days a week. Trains leave Edmonton Monday and Friday, and return Tuesday and Saturday. Supplementary bus service runs Wednesday and Thursday each way.

Edmonton to Saskatoon, via Vermilion and Lloydminster, which formerly ran seven days a week each way, has been reduced to three days a week. Trains will leave Edmonton Sunday, Tuesday and Friday, returning Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday. Supplementary bus service leaves Edmonton Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, and returns Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Edmonton to Saskatoon, via Wainwright and Tofield, formerly six days a week is reduced to three days a week. Trains will leave Edmonton Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and return Monday, Wednesday and Friday. No buses will be used for supplementary service.
